VANDE BHARAT TRAINS TO REPLACE SHATABDI EXPRESS

All rakes of the iconic trains to be replaced by India's first indigenously built semi-high-speed trains by 2024

TO BE PHASED OUT BEFORE 2024 LS ELECTIONS

At present, 23 pairs of Shatabdi Express trains are operated by the Indian Railways. Though it was initially decided to introduce Vande Bharat trains only on Delhi-Bhopal and Delhi-Chandigarh routes, railway sources said the current plan is to start using the semi high speed trains on all Shatabdi Express routes before the 2024 Lok Sabha elections

ON THE TRACKS SINCE 1998

- The first Shatabdi Express train was introduced in 1998 to commemorate the birth centenary of Jawaharlal Nehru
- The Union government in the recent budget announced its plans to mass produce more than 400 new-generation energy-efficient trains over the next three years

Off the brink? Russia 'pulls troops'

NATO cautiously optimistic; Indian embassy asks students to leave country temporarily

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AFTER keeping the world on tenterhooks for days on end by massing troops on the Ukraine border and surrounding the east European country on three sides, Russia on Tuesday said it was withdrawing some of its military forces. This is the first sign of de-escalation and comes a day after heightened tension gripped global markets and wiped out investor wealth worth billions of dollars.

In an official statement on Tuesday, Russian defence ministry spokesperson Major General Igor Konashenkov said that the troops have started returning to their military garrisons after completing drills.

On Tuesday morning, US Secretary of State Antony Blinken spoke on the phone with Russian foreign minister Sergei Lavrov, CNN reported quoting a senior State Department official. While Russia has cited the troops pullout as proof that it never intended to invade Ukraine, NATO chief Jens Stoltenberg said there is no sign of any de-escalation on the ground yet and that the alliance will wait for proof before taking Moscow's word for granted.

Meanwhile, the Indian Embassy in Kyiv issued an advisory asking Indian students in Ukraine to consider leaving the country 'temporarily'.

"In view of the uncertainties of the current situation in Ukraine, Indian nationals in Ukraine, particularly students whose stay is not essential, may consider leaving temporarily," it said. "Indian nationals are also advised to avoid all non-essential travel to and within Ukraine," the embassy noted.

Russian media quoted President Vladimir Putin as saying that Moscow was ready for talks with the US and NATO on limits for missile deployments near Russian borders, adding that NATO had rejected Moscow's demands to keep Ukraine out of the alliance. P19

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

HARIDWAR Sessions Court on Tuesday granted bail to Yati Narsinghanand, an accused in Haridwar Dharam Sansad hate speech case, in a case pertaining to derogatory remarks he made against women.

HC warrant against BBMP chief engineer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued a bailable warrant against the engineer-in-chief of Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) for failing to appear before it during the hearing on a petition related to filling up of potholes in Bengaluru.

During the last hearing, the court had directed the engineer-in-chief to be present before it on Tuesday, but he stayed away. The court had orally warned that it will send officials responsible for deaths of commuters due to potholes to jail.

"The City Police Commissioner is directed to execute the warrant and produce the officer before the court," said a division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Suraj Govindaraj in the order. The next hearing on the public interest litigation filed by Vijayan Menon and others was adjourned to Thursday.

When asked about the absence of the engineer-in-chief, BBMP counsel V Srinidhi told the court that the officer was ill. P7

Allow hijab in colour of uniform: Advocate

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

SENIOR counsel Devadatt Kamat, representing three students from Udupi on the hijab issue, on Tuesday requested the Karnataka High Court to permit students to wear headscarves of the colour of the uniform. He also appealed to the court not to continue the interim order, as it suspends fundamental rights.

Making the submission before the full bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justices Krishna S Dixit and JM Khazi, Kamat said that wearing headscarves is an innocuous practice which is protected under Article 25 of the Constitution.

Arguing for the students, who have questioned the order issued by the state government prescribing uniforms for students in school and college campuses where the College Development Committees (CDCs) are constituted, Kamata said there is some amount of guidance on how powers of the State have to be exercised. P6

No IDs yet, it's long wait for 6,000 disabled

ARPITHA @ Shivamogga

AS there has been an inordinate delay in issuing Unique Disability ID (UDID) cards, over 6,000 differently abled people in Shivamogga district are waiting for months to get benefits under various government schemes. The Department of Differently Abled and Senior Citizens said pending medical assessments of the disabled is causing the delay.

In Shivamogga district, which stands 24th in the state in issuing UDID cards, only 41.80 per cent of the targeted distribution of ID cards has been achieved. Of the 20,585 applications received, 8,811 ID cards have been issued, 6,635 are pending, 3,535 were not verified and 231 were not accepted, data from the department revealed. Some applicants have their medical assessment certificates, but are still struggling to get their UDID cards. Rekha (name changed), who is differently abled, told The New Indian Express that when they visit hospitals, doctors refuse to issue them certificates, and instead offer to treat them. P7

Clear picture on closed Peenya flyover in a day or two, says CM

Construction work substandard, admits Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday admitted that the construction work of Peenya elevated flyover is substandard and said it has been closed taking into consideration safety of the public.

Dasarahalli MLA Manjunath, who raised the issue during zero hour, said the flyover has been closed for the last 56 days as there is a technical error in pillar number 102 and 103. The flyover is part of the National Highway that connects most districts in North Karnataka and other states. There have been long traffic jams, where even ambulances are stuck. The toll is still being collected, despite the flyover being closed, he added.

Speaker Vishveshwar Hegde Kageri said thousands of people use the stretch every day. "The CM has held a meeting on the issue. I urge the government to resolve this," he added.

Replying in the House, Bommai said, "As the flyover was constructed by the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI), we don't know to whom the contract was awarded. The flyover is substandard. NHAI has its own safety standards and that was the reason the flyover was closed. It was a threat to road users."

He said, "NHAI took up the repair work and after its completion, load testing was conducted. Experts from the Indian Institute of Science too did the third party evaluation. The cable used in the flyover is supposed to stay straight, but it is bending which is not safe."

Bommai said he has asked the authorities to check if light vehicles and ambulances can be allowed to use the flyover. "We will get a clear picture in two or three days. I have written to Union Minister Nitin Gadkari," he added.

Replying to Hebbal MLA B S Suresh on roads being dug up in his constituency after they are asphalted, the chief minister said that the government is planning to introduce a system where the consent of agencies would be taken and only after clearance from them that a particular stretch would not be cut will the BBMP develop and asphalt roads.

Only light vehicles on Goraguntepalya flyover

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE Goraguntepalya-Nagasan-dra flyover, closed for repairs since December 26, can be opened for only light motor vehicles, says the preliminary report from Indian Institute of Science (IISc) submitted to National Highway Authority of India (NHAI) and to the state government.

The final structural audit will take around nine months to complete and till then, heavy vehicles will be prohibited. For commuters, it will relieve them from the massive traffic snarls although the NHAI has not agreed to open it for public.

The issue has now gained importance as former education minister, Suresh Kumar, shot a letter to chief minister Basavaraj Bommai asking him to open the 4.5 km elevated stretch, after learning about citizens' grievances and visiting the site on Tumkur Road. The CM also addressed the issue during the Zero Hour of the ongoing Assembly session, where he said that there were faults in the flyover, and it was unfit for heavy vehicles.

Reacting to the issue, NHAI officials said: "All precautionary steps are being taken to open the flyover, but the decision of when to open the flyover is yet to be taken. We will submit the report to the Ministry of National Highways, after which the final decision will be taken."

The NHAI had asked the civil engineering section of IISc to undertake a detailed study of the flyover. Prof J M Chandrakishan, Civil Engineering Department, who is doing the structural assessment of the flyover said that it was constructed 12 years ago, but during maintenance works on December 22, 2021, the NHAI noticed the damage in the cables inside, and it was closed for repairs.

NOTICES ISSUED TO 11 PLACES OF WORSHIP IN BASAVANAGUDI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Basavanagudi police in Bengaluru have issued notices to 11 places of worship, including the famous Dudda Ganapathi Temple, warning them of cases if they violate noise pollution norms.

Notices have been sent to Minto Anjaneya Temple at Kalasipalya, Karanji Anjaneya Temple and Dudda Basavanna Temple. A church, a masjid, a Jain temple and wedding halls too have been included in the list. A police officer said they have taken suo motu action. "The police can issue notices 60 days prior to taking action. We have not done anything outside our jurisdiction, and these are warning notices. No one has complained," the officer said.

The police notice, a copy of which is available with TNIE, states that under the Noise Pollution (Regulation and Control) Rules 2020 and Environment Protection Act 1986, 75 DB is allowed during the day and 70 DB at night in industrial areas. For commercial areas, it is 65 DB (day) and 55 DB (night), for residential areas, it is 55 DB (day) and 45 DB (night) and for silent zones, it is 50 DB (day) and 40 DB (night). As per the notice, the day is specified as from 6 am to 10 pm and night from 10 pm to 6 am.

Last year, the Karnataka State Board of Wakf had prohibited the use of loudspeakers between 10 pm and 6 am during azaan for all mosques and dargahs in the state. The board had taken the decision to ban the use of loudspeakers to prevent noise pollution.

RV Road-Bommasandra Metro line to be opened in two phases

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE major portion of the 19.5-km Rashtriya Vidyalaya Road-Bommasandra Line (Yellow Line) of Bengaluru Metro will be opened by December this year while a small portion will open in March 2023 due to an accident involving a girder, in October, last year.

After undertaking a review of two Metro lines on Tuesday afternoon, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited, Managing Director, Anjum Parwez said that the stretch between Central Silk Board and Bommasandra (nearly 15 km) of this Reach-5 line was in an advanced stage of completion.

"We are planning to commission it by December 2022. However, the stretch between R V Road and Central Silk Board will be in place by March 2023 due to the need to fabricate a girder here." This runs to 4 km and has the rail-cum-road flyover that will rise to 31m, making it the highest in South India.

A 260-tonne launch girder had slipped on October 24 last year at BTM Layout, bringing work to a halt at the Double Decker flyover at the Jayadeva Interchange station. "We worked on restoring the fallen girder but the design team suggested we do away with it and opt for a new girder. This delayed our work by at least two months. The new girder has been installed and has begun work now and presently all three launch girders are working," said a senior Metro official.

BMRL was targeting the launch of the Whitefield-Baiyappanahalli line also by year-end, the MD said. "The Whitefield depot may not be ready by then, but that would not affect the operations," he said.

THE most awaited global bird festival, the Great Backyard Bird Count (GBBC), will be held from February 18-21. The event draws bird lovers and ornithologists as they get a chance to assess the birds of other regions and compare the sightings.

The event, organised by Bird Count India, has been seeing increasing participation, said ornithologists. In India, the census started in 2013. Called the world's biggest bird-a-thon, last year, the event saw more than a lakh participants globally as many bird-watchers captured sightings of birds in their backyards, and uploaded them in the document.

More than 2,900 birders from India participated and uploaded more than 31,355 checklists, and reported 965 species.

India had ranked second globally only after Columbia, for the number of species documented, and ranked third after US and Canada in the number of uploaded checklists. The three most common birds reported in India were Common Myna, Red-vented Bulbul and Rose-ringed Parakeet. Apart from sharing notes of the sightings, the event is also aimed at attracting new birders, and creating interest among citizens, especially children and youths for bird watching. The exercise will also help in getting to know if the number of birds in India are declining, and where and what is the root cause. It is a simple exercise to be part of the bird count. The basic activity is to list all bird species seen at a particular location over a period of 15 minutes or more, at any time over a period of four days, and upload the list to the bird recording platform at eBird www.ebird.org/india.

Sub-registrar offices to open from 9am-7pm

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL
16th February: Astrologically, it's a fiery day. In plain language this means optimism, expansion, energy and hope. The downside is a risk of conflict and confrontation. That's why I would prescribe a healthy dose of peace-making. This is one of those days when we all need to make friends with each other.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)
There will be little change today, so why don't you just enjoy life the way it is? Seemingly intractable domestic problems might even look after themselves. It does seem that promised professional advances may take place once intimate relationships have been put back on an even keel.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)
A protracted discussion over resources, who owns what and so on, should long ago have been settled in your favour. Now you must show yourself as a kind and magnanimous person, generous to rivals as well as friends. It is time, in other words, to honour the past, not to bury it.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You're hitting a brief extravagant phase, but unnecessary losses are less likely if you set out to formalise existing arrangements and see to it that whatever is agreed, is sufficiently in tune with current circumstances, to be of lasting value.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
According to a number of your planetary patterns, you are now under near-perfect marriage indicators. What this means is that favoured relationships may now be put on a formal basis, combining your romantic aspirations with a sense of what is real and possible.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)
You may have a nagging feeling that you have let yourself down or failed in some way, or perhaps missed some golden opportunity or other. I think that such worries are exaggerated and do not reflect the real situation. It's all down to the fact you expect way too much of yourself.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sept. 23)
You may still trust intimate friends, but colleagues who have less knowledge of, or sympathy with, your goals, may now be losing faith. Don't worry about it. After all, perhaps these are people you can do without. Take the line that you are better off free of them dogging your progress.

Need community participation to eradicate TB: Doc

Nearly 3k people in K'taka, over 4L across country succumb to disease every year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THOUGH Tuberculosis (TB) is completely curable, lakhs of people are still dying due to the disease. For a TB-free India, community participation is essential, stressed Dr Anil S. Deputy Director of Lady Willington State TB Training and Demonstration Centre, Bengaluru, on Tuesday.

He was speaking on the sidelines of the inauguration of the TB awareness workshop and launch of the TB-Free Karnataka campaign in the city. "The Government of India intends to rid the country of TB by 2025 and so the campaign 'TB Solisi, Karnataka Gellisi' is being taken up in all the districts in Karnataka," he noted.

Due to lack of proper information that TB is curable, over four lakh people in the country and around 2,000-3,000 people in Karnataka die due to TB every year. There are stigmas associated with the disease even now, he said. Unfortunately, even premier health centres in the country have failed to provide proper guidance about TB to the general public, Dr Anil pointed out.

He made use of the platform to urge medical students and government health care professionals, especially Asha workers and those working in primary health centres, to help in the drive to create awareness among the masses and eradicate TB in the country. He also suggested that volunteers of Bharath Scouts and Guides could be roped in for creating awareness.

Early detection of TB and ensuring community participation in creating awareness is very essential, he pointed out.

Kidwai gets bone marrow transplant facility

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HEALTH and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Tuesday launched a bone marrow transplant (BMT) centre at the Bengaluru-centred Kidwai Memorial Institute of Oncology (KMIO) to facilitate free treatment for children from economically weaker sections. He also announced plans to set up Kidwai regional centres in each district to make cancer treatment easily accessible to people across the state. The bone marrow transplant centre has been opened to ensure that no child is deprived of such treatment in the fight against cancer, he noted.

Sudhakar also participated in the foundation stone-laying ceremony of the medical ICU that is being constructed in Kidwai at a cost of Rs 4 crore. Speaking on the occasion to mark International Childhood Cancer Day, Sudhakar said bone marrow transplant is not affordable for poor patients at private hospitals, and the new facility at Kidwai will ensure that no one is deprived of cancer treatment. Two kids have already received treatment and more will avail treatment here in the coming days, he said.

Childhood cancer is one of the major causes of death among kids and adolescents across the world, especially in developing countries. Lack of early diagnosis and timely treatment are the main reasons for cancer fatalities.

The decision to set up regional centres has come about after taking note of the hardship that cancer patients undergo in travelling to Bengaluru to be treated at Kidwai, which has increased the burden on the institute. "To increase accessibility to effective cancer treatment across the state, we are planning to set up regional centres in all the districts," Sudhakar said.

Three held for cheating job aspirants

THE Sampigehalli police on Tuesday arrested a gang of three men who posed as HR managers of reputed MNCs and have allegedly cheated several job aspirants. Based on a complaint by the management of a private firm, the police launched an investigation and tracked down the accused. Cong leaders raise hijab issue in both Houses

Govt maintains it is committed to implement interim high court order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE hijab issue, which is being hotly debated in the Karnataka High Court, was raised in the Legislative Assembly and Council by Congress members on Tuesday, the second day of the special session.

In the Assembly, Deputy Leader of the Opposition U T Khader pointed out that there is confusion over implementing the high court's interim order, resulting in chaos at many schools. In many places, the school managements are insisting that teachers not remove the hijab before entering the school premises, while the high court's interim order stresses on students' dress code, he pointed out. The government responded by stating that it is committed to implementing the interim order. Raising the issue in the Assembly during Zero Hour, Khader said students, parents and even teachers are in distress after the hijab row broke out. He said that at Shivamogga and a few other places, students were not allowed to enter the school premises as they were wearing the hijab, and Class 10 students even missed their preparatory exams.

Referring to the high court order, Khader said that it clearly says wherever the college managements have prescribed a dress code, students have to wear the uniform and nothing other than that. However, the State Government is insisting on it at schools too. "Also, at some places,

Bitcoin issue raises heat in Assembly

The Assembly on Tuesday witnessed ruckus after BJP MLA from Kudachi, P Rajeev, raised the Bitcoin scam and hit out at Congress members, accusing them of supporting scam accused Sri Krishna alias Sriki. Speaking during the vote of thanks to the Governor's address, Rajeev slammed Congress leaders for making allegations against police officials and BJP leaders. "This is nothing but hit-and-run. If you have the evidence, why can't you complain to the police or the government," he asked. Rajeev also said that in 2014, the Bengaluru police arrested drug peddlers, including Sriki, but he was left off. When JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy said that he had mentioned about Sriki's involvement, Congress members created ruckus for some time.

the dress code has not just been limited to students, but teachers were also being asked to remove the hijab before entering the school campus.

There is a need to have a conducive environment where children can study in school," he added.

On Monday, a teacher in Mandya was made to remove her burqa at the school gate.

Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy said they will get the details and respond to the question raised by the Congress member. He assured that the government is committed to implementing the court order.

In the Council, Congress MLC K Harish Kumar termed it as an unnecessary controversy that is distracting students. This resulted in lathi-charge on college premises, a teacher being assaulted, a saffron flag being hoisted on a college premises and students being deprived of education, he noted.

Oppn corners Katti over ragi procurement

The Assembly on Tuesday witnessed a furore over the government's decision to procure only 2.1 lakh metric tonnes of ragi against the demand of 4 lakh metric tonnes. Former agriculture minister Krishna Byregowda pointed out that there was no limitation in the guidelines issued by the Centre on procuring ragi under MSP. Supplies Minister Umesh Katti said the government will procure 2.1 metric tonnes of ragi by March 30.

Why not open liquor shop in each GP, asks MLA

Hitting out at the State Government for not controlling illegal liquor shops, Congress MLA Dr Ranganath H D asked the government to start "legal" liquor outlets in each gram panchayat. Ranganath said, "Farmers are in distress in these Covid times. The little money they earn, they spend on liquor. Why not the government start liquor shops in every gram panchayat, instead of allowing illegal sale?" he asked.

Oppn MLAs ask govt to be fair in implementing HC order

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the hijab row resulting in heated arguments in schools and many students returning home without writing their pre-board examinations, a delegation of Muslim legislators from the Congress met Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday and demanded implementation of the High Court interim order in a fair manner. They also urged the CM to take action against those trying to create disturbances.

While the schools that were closed after the hijab row took a violent turn last week were reopened on Monday, colleges are reopening on Wednesday.

"There was no controversy for decades and it has now come up suddenly. The HC judgement is specific about institutions that have College Development Committees (CDC) and that have uniforms. However, schools that do not come under the ambit of the judgment are also stopping children and staff outside school premises and asking them to remove the hijab," said Congress MLA Rizwan Arshad.

He was part of the delegation consisting of deputy leader in the Assembly UT Khader; legislators' Tanvir Sait, Saleem Ahmed and others. On Monday, a teacher in Mandya was asked to remove her burqa outside the school premises.

The MLA said there has to be a clear message to officials that the court order is specific and it cannot be enforced in a blanket manner and force children and teachers to remove hijab or burqa on the streets. "This will be like targeting those children with scarves on the streets," Arshad said.

Make stand clear on row, Joshi tells Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

ACCUSING the Congress of playing politics over the hijab row in the state, Union Minister Pralhad Joshi asked the grand old party to make clear its stand on the issue. He also appealed to Muslim students and parents to give priority to education and not to fall prey to the propaganda of vested interests.

Speaking to media persons here on Tuesday, Joshi said wearing hijab or not should not have been a controversy as students were supposed to abide by the dress code of respective schools and colleges. But some vested and political interests were instigating the students to tarnish the image of the country, he said while clarifying that he is not targeting any particular community.

Asking the Congress to spell out its stand on the controversy, the minister denounced the bikini remark made by AICC general secretary Priyanka Gandhi by sarcastically calling her "Yuvarani", and asked the Congress leaders whether they follow what their leader had said. "The BJP will appeal to the students not to wear either hijab or saffron shawl. Is the Congress ready to take the same call?" he asked.

The state is known for upholding communal harmony, he said and urged all political parties to come together during the ongoing legislative session.

'Not a case where students refuse to wear uniforms'

"THIS this is not the way the law can be used to curb a religious practice, using powers under the Education Act," Kamat added.

This is not a case where students are refusing to wear uniforms, but an exemption is being sought for a section of students to wear headscarves of the colour of their uniform. The issue should be examined whether certain exemptions can be given to exercise religious faith with little modifications, he argued.

"The state cannot say wearing headscarves will disturb public order and lead to commotion. In a secular state, where positive secularism is practised, the innocuous practice is a facet of freedom of expression. Not allowing students to wear an extra attire will have consequences," he pleaded.

Senior counsel Ravivarma Kumar, representing some of the petitioners, argued that the CDC is a nonexisting body under the statute and it is an extra-legal authority, although it has been given powers to prescribe uniforms, which is contrary to the rules.

Arguments will continue on Wednesday at 2.30 pm.

'No proposal to repeal amendments to APMC Act'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Government on Tuesday said as of now, there is no proposal to repeal amendments to the Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) Act.

Cooperation Minister S T Somashekhar informed the Legislative Council that they amended the Act to enable farmers to sell their produce in APMCs or outside. "Our intention is to help farmers and that was the reason for the amendments to the Act. We have not received a single complaint," the minister said.

The minister was responding to Congress MLC K Harish Kumar's question whether there was a proposal before the government to repeal the amendments. To facilitate the implementation of the central Act, the State Government amended the APMC Act. Opposition Congress and farmer associations have been demanding that the State Government withdraw the amendments, especially after the Centre repealed three controversial farm laws after the farmers' protests.

Somashekhar said the state has the powers to amend the Karnataka Agricultural Produce Market (Regulation and Development) Act and the government amended Sections 8 (2), 8 (3) and 117 on December 31, 2020. The State Government will take appropriate decisions keeping the best interests of farmers in mind, he said.

Opposition Leader in the Council B K Hariprasad also questioned the State Government why it has not repealed the amendments, even after the Centre repealed the three farm laws.

SC directs HC to take up Prajwal wealth case

UDAYA KUMAR BR @ Hassan

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday directed the Karnataka High Court to admit a fresh petition on alleged disproportionate assets of Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna.

Advocate Devarajegowda of Hassan had earlier filed a case before the high court, alleging that Prajwal had submitted a false affidavit while filing his nominations papers for Parliamentary elections in 2019. The advocate had accused Prajwal of failing to mention details of his assets to the IT department every year. Devarajegowda, who is also a BJP member, had stated that Prajwal had assets worth

Rs 23 crore when he was 15.

Though the petition was filed one-and-a-half years ago seeking disqualification of Prajwal, the single bench of high court had rejected the petition on technical grounds and also citing incomplete information. Later he approached the Supreme Court, which directed him to file a fresh petition.

The SC also has directed the high court to suspend the previous order and admit the fresh case in this regard, he added. Justice Sanjay Kishan Koul and Justice Sundares of the Supreme Court took up the petition on Tuesday and finally passed directions to the high court.

Spirits industry seeks correction in skewed excise duty

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH the state budget slated to be presented in early March, the alcohol beverage industry has urged the State Government to set right the skewed excise duty structure and inconsistencies that is denting the revenue collection potential from spirits in Karnataka.

The alcohol beverage industry has pointed out that Karnataka, which sells one of the highest bottled alcohol beverages in South India, lags in per case excise revenue collection as compared to other states.

For instance, in the financial year 2019-20, sale of spirits in Karnataka was 60.09 million cases and excise collection stood at Rs 21,584 crore, while in Telangana, 34.88 million cases were sold with excise collection standing at Rs 22,210 crore. Karnataka, despite selling almost 72 per cent more spirits than Telangana by volume, collected excise revenue just about 3 per cent lesser.

Experts said this is because a skewed excise duty made value/premium segment exorbitantly expensive. This led to encouraging binge drinking habits at lower price brackets, forcing premium segment consumers to source from neighbouring states where prices are lower.

Alcohol industry veterans said due to this, in Karnataka, low-end liquor sale is very high, compared to any other major market in India, thereby contributing to lower per case revenue.

On the other hand, popular and premium Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL) brands, which have high sale potential in the state, are witnessing muted sales owing to very high excise duty, probably the highest in India.

Industry experts said harmonization of excise duty structure in Karnataka will be a win-win situation for both the State Government as well as consumers. Besides helping the state get additional revenue, it will also give consumers access to spirits of their choice at better pricing within the state. It will also attract additional investment from existing and new players to set up production facilities as the state has a huge market waiting to be tapped. Besides, lesser slabs with harmonization will lead to long-term industry sustenance, they said.

Karunakar Hegde, Vice-President, Federation of the Wine Merchants Association (FWMA), Karnataka, said, "We are expecting the government to call a pre-budget meeting sometime next week. We have submitted proposals to the government asking them not to hike duty on IMFL. The percentage of profit here is meagre, because with 10 per cent margin, it is very difficult to run the show. We have requested the government to hike percentage of profit also."

'We cannot avail benefits without UDID cards'

REKHA said, "Without UDID cards, we cannot avail of any government benefits. When we go to hospitals to get medical certificates, we are told to come on a particular day. When we reach at the appointed time, doctors remain absent. Many of us are tired of waiting. The government should resolve these problems."

District Disabled Welfare Officer Shilpa M Doddamani said that UDID cards, which were introduced in 2019, are issued by an agency Chennai and it has been contracted to cover the differently-abled population of the entire country.

Village Rehabilitation Workers (VRW) at the panchayat level are helping the disabled get medical certificates, but doctors are not available at many places. Doddamani said many districts are conducting health camps to issue medical certificates and she has written to the District Health Officer to conduct similar camps in Shivamogga.

"The health department said they will let us know the dates, but there has been no communication after that. We are planning to hold camps in two taluks every Tuesday. The disabled, who have been waiting for months for their ID cards, keep visiting our offices to enquire about the status of their cards. Regional centres should be allowed to issue these cards, and this will avoid long travels for the disabled," Doddamani said.

DHO Dr Rajesh Suragihalli said all taluk and district hospitals have been given the authority to issue medical certificates. "There could be some delay in uploading the assessment data, though orders have been given to do it daily. I will check the status of pending applications and consider the suggestion of health camps," he added.

KINDNESS IN GRIEF

Nurse dies; family donates organs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chikkamagaluru

AMID unbearable grief over the sudden demise of their daughter, her family exhibited exemplary kindness by donating her organs to the Bengaluru-based PMSSY Medical College Hospital.

Ganavi Gowda was working as a nurse in a private hospital in Shivamogga. While she was on night shift duty at the hospital on February 8, she had collapsed and lost consciousness.

She was immediately shifted to the PMSSY Hospital in Bengaluru.

The nurse was battling between life and death for four days. But there was no improvement in her health.

On February 12, doctors in the hospital declared that her brain was dead.

Even in that heart-rending situation, the family members decided to donate important organs to the hospital.

As per parents' wishes, the body was shifted to Institute of Gastroenterology and Organ Transplant (IGOT) hospital and organ retrieval was done.

Six needy patients had received her organs. Ganavi hailed from Kattimane-Hosakoppa in NR Pura taluk of Chikkamagaluru district.

She was the daughter of Krishnamurthy and Leelavathy. Ganavi was the second daughter and she was 22 years old.

CBI files chargesheet in Reddy murder case

P HAREESH @ Vijayawada

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), in its chargesheet filed before court in the murder case of former minister, YS Vivekananda Reddy, said Kadapa MP, YS Avinash Reddy, along with his associate D Shankar Reddy had propagated a theory that the former minister died due to heart attack.

The CBI also said the deceased was favouring a ticket (Kadapa Lok Sabha) for himself or YS Sharmila (sister of Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy) or YS Vijayamma (Mother of Jagan Mohan Reddy), instead of Avinash Reddy. "Hence it is suspected that Avinash Reddy got him (Vivekananda Reddy) killed through his henchman D Shankar Reddy," the investigating agency said.

In connection with the murder, the CBI named four persons as accused.

According to CBI, Reddy's personal assistant MV Krishna Reddy came to his house around 5.30 am and found that the latter was sleeping.

The CBI said the plan to murder Reddy was made around February 10, 2019 in the house of Gangi Reddy. Another accused, Sunil Yadav, conned Reddy by assuring him of huge amounts through sale of some diamonds in his possession. "Sunil Yadav also suspected that the deceased had an immoral desire towards his mother," the CBI said. Another accused, against whom the chargesheet was filed, was G Umashankar Reddy, who felt that Reddy never gave him any political space in the village sarpanch poll. The chargesheet was also filed against Shaik Dastagiri, as he was dismissed as driver by Reddy.

In 4 years, Kerala's drinking population down by 46%

MS VIDYANANDAN @ T'Puram

BELIEVE it or not, contrary to popular theories, liquor consumption in the state is declining over the years. The latest round of the National Family Health Survey (NFHS) has recorded a 46% decline in alcohol consumption among people of Kerala, in comparison with the statistics of four years ago. According to the NFHS-5 carried out during 2019-20, only 19.9% of men and 0.2% of women, both above the age of 15, in the state consume alcohol. The previous round, NFHS-4 carried out in 2015-16, showed that the 37% of men and 1.6% of women in Kerala, both in the 15-49 age group, were alcohol consumers. A comparison of both the reports, despite the difference in the targeted age group, show a clear declining trend in consumption, say experts. But, Kerala's consumption rate among men is marginally higher than the national average, shows the NFHS-5.

The countrywide figures for consumption among men and women were 18.8% and 1.3% respectively. As per the survey, Arunachal Pradesh has the highest consumption rate of 52.7%. Like Kerala, neighbouring Tamil Nadu has also registered a steep de-growth. When compared to previous survey figures of 46.7%, TN's latest figure, 25.4% is much lower. What has also validated the NFHS data is a decline in overall sales volume of the Kerala State Beverages Corporation, the state monopoly in liquor sales.

The corporation sold 355.95 lakh cases, including IMFL and beer, in 2015-16 which dipped to 334.08 cases in 2019-20.

BBMP chief gets summons

ISSUING the warrant, the court said, "If he was not in a position to appear, he could have made a mention and moved an exemption application in advance but not when the case is taken up."

In another case, the High Court directed the BBMP Chief Commissioner to be present before it for defying its order on dumping solid waste at a quarry in Mittaganahalli without authorisation from the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board.

The Chief Commissioner has been directed to appear along with revenue records to ascertain on whose directions the solid waste is being dumped at the site.

The hearing was adjourned to March 5, 2022.

TIME TO REVISIT AP REORGANISATION ACT PROMISES

It is almost eight years to the day since the infamous pepper spray episode in the Lok Sabha when the then MP Lagadapati Rajagopal used it ostensibly in 'self-defence' during the passage of the Andhra Pradesh Reorganisation Bill. The unfortunate incident, recently cited by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, created a furore in Telangana but sent not a ripple in residuary Andhra Pradesh—which was hit the hardest by the division of united Andhra Pradesh. Inexplicably, no one is bothered.

A couple of days ago, salt was rubbed into the old wounds when the agenda of the Dispute Resolution Sub-Committee's first meeting scheduled on February 17 came to light. The panel has been constituted by the Union Home Ministry to recommend a pragmatic approach to resolve pending issues between Andhra and Telangana. The agenda included, among other things, grant of special category status to AP as well as its resource gap. The BJP quickly moved in to get them excluded on the ground that these issues aren't bilateral in nature. It is true. But the revision came a bit late in the day as the ruling YSRC had already gone to town by then to pat itself on the shoulder for inclusion of special status on the agenda—something the Centre has time and again termed a closed chapter. The entire episode reflects the difficulties being faced by Andhra since 2014. Special status wasn't included in the Reorganisation Act but was promised by the then PM Manmohan Singh "for purposes of central assistance" and backed by the then opposition BJP. Later, the Modi government, citing the 14th Finance Commission recommendations, denied special status altogether and instead, offered a special package.

Similarly, Polavaram, declared a national project and included in the Act, is tied up in knots with the Centre insisting on paying only for the irrigation component, that too at 2014 prices. There are other aspects like division of assets and liabilities that are pending too, though the legislation says the Centre could act on the advice of the CAG. Why is the Centre dragging its feet? If pepper spray was ignoble, what is this?

BREACHING CHEMICAL POLLUTION RED LINE

The horrors of chemical pollution are not new but a latest study says that humanity may have breached the red line when it comes to the threats it poses. A team of 14 international scientists have found grave dangers caused by synthetic chemicals and their report warns us that the planet may have suffered irreversible damage. The study by Stockholm Resilience Centre says that chemical production has logged a 50-fold rise since 1950 and that it would triple in another 28 years. The production of plastics alone, the report says, grew by 79% in a 15-year period between 2000 and 2015.

The sheer numbers generated do not bode well for the future. There are over 50,000 different types of chemicals, including those present in consumer products, plastics, pesticides, industrial chemicals and pharmaceutical goods. These have been categorised 'wholly novel entities' created by human activities and enter the environment every year. There is very little scientific understanding on a majority of them, which makes the challenge all the more complex. The report says the rate at which these pollutants have entered the environment is beyond the capacity of governments to assess, let alone process and control.

The new research is pathbreaking in the sense that it adds to the nine planetary boundaries identified in 2009 that set the limit for a stable Earth system. The boundaries include forests, ozone layer, greenhouse gas emissions, freshwater as well as biodiversity among others. By now, four boundaries have been breached. Chemical pollutants that include plastics appear to be reaching the danger line. Besides, their negative impact on Earth's biodiversity and biochemical cycles are huge. The course correction too looks gravely challenging because only 10% of plastics are recycled. Circular economy, setting a limit to production of these chemicals and ban on usage could help arrest the alarming situation but drastic steps have to be taken at the international level and before reaching a point of no return. As the authors of the study warn, the more you produce, the more you release into Earth's environment.

Despite the many advantages that it has, the state has not been able to attract resources from the Tamil diaspora. What needs to be done?

INVESTMENT BY DIASPORA IN TN, RHETORIC & REALITY

V SURYANARAYAN

Senior Professor (Retd.), Centre for South and Southeast Asian Studies, University of Madras

A conference was held in Chennai at the end of December 2021, which brought together representatives of the Tamil diaspora and specialists from the state. Organised by Dr V R S Sampath, a renowned scholar on diaspora, the focus of the seminar was on investments from overseas Tamils in the state, opportunities and challenges.

The organisers made special efforts to get top bureaucrats from the Tamil Nadu government to make presentations. They included, among others, S Krishnan, Dharmendra Pratap Yadav, R Selvam, N Muruganandam and S Pooja Kulkarni. They highlighted the state's advantages—no power shortage, no labour unrest, excellent connectivity within the state and with the world outside, good banking and legal infrastructure, and scope for training a skilled labour force. I was hoping the bureaucrats would mention details of proposals received from the Indian diaspora in general, and Tamil diaspora in particular, and how many were sanctioned and how many are under consideration. Details of NRI-promoted projects and the sectors would have been helpful. A comparative study of TN with other states would have been of great help. Unfortunately they did not offer any information.

Despite its advantages, the state has not been able to attract resources from the Tamil diaspora. A former TN Minister and currently an eminent educationist, who presided over a couple of sessions, highlighted two points. He alluded to widespread corruption that has affected both the state and society. He also contrasted diaspora Tamils with overseas Chinese who have contributed nearly 70% of Foreign Direct Investment since the days of economic transformation in the mid-1970s.

Given below are a few illustrations to substantiate his observations. Between April 2021 and June 2021, India recorded its highest Foreign Direct Investment equity inflow. Singapore was at the top with $3.31 billion followed by Mauritius with $3.29 billion. According to perceptive economists from our country, Mauritius is one of the main places where Indian operators convert their black money into white and bring it back to the nation.

During 1991–96, the state government leadership got entangled in several corruption cases. The Republic of Singapore, at that time, was very keen to diversify its investments. Naturally, TN figured very high in their calculations. According to unimpeachable Singapore sources, there was demand for a huge sum of money to be deposited in dollars in a Hong Kong Bank. Frustrated, it turned to Chandrababu Naidu, who rolled out a red carpet for Singapore business houses.

The 2G Spectrum scandal rocked the second term of Manmohan Singh government. Many TN politicians were detained for interrogation. Though the Special Court acquitted them for lack of evidence, the stigma persists. As the eminent educationist observed, TN has to get rid of this image before it becomes an attractive location for FDI.

I G Patel, economic advisor to successive governments, has narrated an important trait of non-resident Indians. In the 1980s, to attract foreign exchange, the GoI permitted NRIs to open accounts in SBI in dollars, earn interest in that currency and withdraw the money in it. And when India was engulfed in a severe financial crisis and gold from the Reserve Bank's vaults had to be airlifted to London as mortgage for international financial loans, there was a scramble from NRIs to close their accounts. Delivering the Lal Bahadur Shastri Memorial lecture in New Delhi, Patel lamented: "The non-resident Indian may have his heart in India, but he would prefer to keep his money in Swiss banks."

Southeast Asia is a fascinating laboratory to compare and contrast the Overseas Chinese and Indians. 1) The Chinese presence in Southeast Asia is substantial, 30 million, whereas the Indian presence is just 5 million. Except in Malaysia and Singapore, where Indians constitute 9% and 7.5% of the population respectively, they are a minuscule minority elsewhere. In Burma, which was part of British India until 1937, Indian presence was large, but many of them came back here voluntarily or they were edged out after the introduction of socialist policies. According to the Singhvi Committee Report on Indian Diaspora, nearly 400,000 people of Indian origin in Myanmar are stateless. 2) The Chinese dominate the economic life of all Southeast Asian nations whereas the role of Indians is negligible. In Malaysia, Indians own only 1.4% of the national wealth. In Singapore, while Indian expatriates are an object of envy and admiration, the per capita income of a Singapore citizen of Indian Tamil origin is less than the national average. In Malaysia, the plantations have disintegrated and Indian workers were compelled to move to urban areas as squatters. Without education, they have been lumpenised and criminalised. 3) The ethnic tensions in Southeast Asia revolve around interaction among the indigenous people and Chinese minorities. There had been anti-Chinese riots in several countries at regular intervals. And whenever and wherever China had tried to protect the interests of the Overseas Chinese, it had led to deterioration in bilateral ties. During recent years, the Indian community is also getting involved in ethnic tensions; for example, there has been violence against the Indian workers both in Malaysia and in Singapore.

The Conference had one session devoted to poverty alleviation, but none of the panellists referred to the manifold problems relating to the vulnerable sections of Tamil diaspora—statelessness in Myanmar, the lumpenisation of Indian squatters in Malaysia, destruction of Hindu temples there, and the tragic events that culminated in communal riots in "Little India" in Singapore. Can the state remain silent when its children are subjected to humiliation?

The role of diaspora in China's economic transformation is considerable. When Lee Kuan Yew visited China in 1976, he told Deng Xiaoping that Overseas Chinese formed only 4% of China's population, but owned four times its national wealth. Deng was impressed with the city state's progress and he emulated the Singapore example in many ways. Goh Keng Swee, who brought about the "Singapore miracle", advised China on how to develop export promotion zones.

It must, however, be underlined that India's progress has been accomplished under a democratic setup. Whereas China has undergone several upheavals—the Great Leap Forward, Cultural Revolution and Tiananmen Square massacre—that have cost millions of lives. What is more, in a world of shrinking geographical boundaries and widening intellectual horizon, no nation, not even China, can remain insulated for long. The winds of democracy and upholding of human rights will have its fallout there too.

In his address to the US Congress, the then PM Narasimha Rao underlined one unique feature of India, which remains valid even today. The transition from a closed, protected economy to an open, export-oriented economy has been very smooth; what is more, the reform process enjoys support cutting across India's diverse political spectrum.

THE NAVAGUNJARA MOTIF OF ODISHA

SRINIVAS SISTLA

Associate Professor, Department of Fine Arts, Andhra University, Visakhapatnam

Nava-naari-kunjara or the nine-women-elephant motif is familiar to many as it has been widely represented in pre-modern Indian paintings and sculptures in many parts of the country. The motif was often shown independently, i.e. without any rider. In some examples, Kamadeva (God of Love), Radha and Krishna, or even a king has been shown riding the elephant, which is formed by nine dancing women who cling to each other. Now let us look at the Navagunjara motif, a form made up of parts of nine different beings, that occupies a pivotal position primarily in Odisha art, literature and culture.

In the tradition of Sri Jagannatha of Puri, Navagunjara is considered as representing Eswara (Supreme One) and as the Visvarupa (Universal Form) of Krishna, an incarnation of Vishnu. The composite figure consists of the head and neck of a peacock, a slender waist topped with the hump of a bull, and a serpent as the tail. The figure stands on the three legs; the left foreleg that of an elephant, and the hind legs that of a tiger and deer. The right foreleg, in the form of a human hand, holds a lotus in full bloom. In a few examples, the head of a rooster is shown instead of the peacock. In my opinion, the peacock's head perfectly suits the form as the myth is associated with Krishna, whose head is often shown decked with the feather of a peacock.

The motif of Navagunjara must have existed in the folklore of the region from the beginning of the Puri temple and its legend. But the related tradition was first narrated in the Sarala Mahabharata written in Odiya by Sarala Das (15th century), who is hailed as the Adi-kabi (first poet) of the language. Siddeswar Parida, who assumed the pen name of Sarala Das later, is said to have been a soldier in the army of the Gajapati King, Kapilendra Dev (r. 1434–1467), who had captured many areas in South India, in Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu—up to River Cauvery—that were then part of the Vijayanagara Empire.

The Sarala Mahabharata narrates many myths, including that of Navagunjara, which were not present in the original Sanskrit version by Vyasa Muni. Accordingly, Arjuna, the third of the five Pandavas, had done a great penance for a long time, and in the end, Navagunjara appeared before him. Arjuna, fearing for his life, initially pointed a weapon against the unique 'creature', but after noticing the lotus in the right hand, he realised that it represented the Virat-swarupa of Vishnu-Krishna and offered his obeisance to the divine form.

In Odisha art, Navagunjara is shown independently as well as with Arjuna. A scene of Arjuna worshipping the Virat-swarupa is carved on the northern side of Sri Jagannath temple in Puri, and the outer circumference of the Neela Chakra (blue discus) atop the central tower of the temple also contains eight carvings of the same composite form, with all facing the flagpost above. The subject is painted on the exterior walls of many homes in Puri and other places. In the Pata-chitra tradition of paintings on cloth, palm leaf, wood and paper, which are still widely produced by many artists of a village named Raghurajpur, near Puri, the same theme is frequently represented. On the traditional Ganjifa (round playing cards), the vibrant figure of Navagunjara is shown on the king card, and that of Arjuna on the minister card.

As mentioned earlier, many areas of South India were under the rule of the Gajapatis for a long time, from about the mid-15th century to c. 1517. Incidentally, a small panel in the ceiling paintings

(c. 1510) of the mahamantapa (great pavilion) of Sri Virupaksha temple at Hampi shows Arjuna worshipping Navagunjara. The theme, to the best of my knowledge, is very rare in Vijayanagara art.

Edward Moore (1771–1848) in his book, The Hindu Pantheon (1810), published a line engraving of Navagunjara with the name tag of Viratarupa. The engraving was done by Matthew Houghton (1766–1821), a British painter and engraver in London. Moore had collected a painting of Navagunjara from Charles Stuart (c. 1758–1828), who worked as an army officer at Kolkata under the East India Company. Stuart wrote several newspaper articles and books on Hinduism, including Vindication of the Hindoos (1808), and became well known in his own lifetime as the Hindoo Stuart. It's possible that Stuart had gone to Odisha and collected the picture from the region, most likely in Puri. Both Moore and Stuart had extensively quoted from the Bhagavad-Gita of Krishna from the Mahabharata. A stanza of the Gita says, "There Arjuna could see the totality of the entire universe established in one place, in that body of the God of Gods." The stanza, in my opinion, perfectly matches with the visualisation of Navagunjara.

Need to curb inflation now

It is depressing to note that retail inflation has touched a seven month-high (Feb 15). Food, including vegetables, and clothing saw a significant price increase. As inflation breaches the RBI's tolerance level, the Union government and the Central bank have to act fast to bring relief to those already cowering under the impact of Covid.

Few women in politics

Though nearly half of the voters in Punjab are women, the number of female candidates contesting there is meagre (Women's share in Punjab politics not promising, Feb 14). As pointed out, it may be due to a lack of political awareness and perhaps also due to unwillingness to take part in active politics. Nonetheless, all these could be attributed to the lack of conducive environment for them in the male-dominated political scenario. What is needed is confidence building among women by all parties to convince them to take part.

An immortal work

This is with reference to the opinion article A Tamil epic from present-day Kerala? (Feb 15). Whether the headquarters of the Chera dynasty in the Sangam age was in present-day Kerala or Tamil Nadu is a matter of debate. The author points to the Kodungallur region in Kerala. Whatever it be, Kannagi is as much revered in Kerala as in Tamil Nadu and Silapatikaram is an immortal work.

The author has provided nice insights into Silapatikaram, which is one of the five great epics in Tamil literature. Incidentally, at the end of the write-up, the author has indicated that Ilanko-Adigal wrote the epic from Kodungallur region in Kerala, sitting in his abode, Gunavayirkottam. Interestingly, the abode was a Jain institution of considerable importance in Chera country, as pointed out by Amalananda Ghosh.

Punjab youth largely cynical of parties, polls

As parties fail to address unemployment and drug menace, youngsters in the state look for opportunities abroad

H KHOGEN SINGH
@ Bathinda/Bamala/Amritsar (Punjab)

ALL of Punjab's eyes may be fixated on the high-octane contest in Amritsar East constituency, where two political giants, Navjot Singh Sidhu of the Congress and Bikram Singh Majithia of the Akali Dal, are pitted against each other, but it is a big yawn for Sallupreet Kaur, 22, a college student who has enrolled herself in one of the many International English Language Testing System academies in Amritsar.

"I don't know where Amritsar East is and I don't care, all politicians are thieves. All I know is I have to clear the IELTS to go to Canada," she said as she took out a black dupatta from a cabinet of the scooter, wrapped her face with it, revealing only her eyes, before starting on a dust-ridden ride to her home about 6km away.

Arti Kaushal, 24, an IELTS coordinator at Sky Bridge Academy in the heart of Bathinda, also had similar dreams to fly away abroad, but it crash landed as her parents had matrimonial plans for her. "I had cleared my IELTS from this academy itself but now I now work here, maybe someday I will also migrate," she said in hope.

Kaur and Kaushal are among the lakhs of youth for whom politics and the ongoing elections are of least interest. With little job avenues in the state, particularly for the educated, coupled with the tentacles of drugs that lurk from every quarter, most of the youth, urban and rural alike, harbour dreams of going abroad to escape the double-fisted punch of berozgari (unemployment) and nasha (drugs).

For Gurpreet Singh, 20, a second year college student in Abohar town of Fazilka close to the Pakistan border, politicians are the devil-incarnate. "In the last five years only a few roads have come up in this town but there are no jobs here, all the leaders are useless. After college I plan to go to Australia," he said, his language often laced with expletives.

The 2011 Census put Punjab's population at 2.77 crore, of English language training centres are a common sight in Punjab's cities whom about 60 lakh are in the 18-30 age bracket. This huge mass could have potentially constituted the much-touted demographic dividend but a large number desires to go abroad lest they turn into social pariahs.

According to the Punjab Ghar Ghar Rozgar & Karobar Mission under the state's Department of Employment Generation, more than 13.48 lakh had registered with the mission's websites for employment, but there were only 7,561 government jobs available, 4,126 in the private sector.

While the economically better-placed youth aim to leave the country, the poorer sections pick up vocations after dropping out of school. Gursevak Singh, 25, of Ramdas town in rural Amritsar, had hoped to get a class IV job in the government after finishing "plus two," but luck was not on his side. He then trained to become a barber and now runs a sparsely equipped, single-seater salon from a garage-type shop taken on rent. "Before Captain (Amarinder Singh) became the CM in 2017 he had promised one job for each family. Had he kept his promise I wouldn't have become a barber, I barely manage to earn enough," he rued.

Like Gursevak, Surinder Singh, 30, a combine harvester mechanic in Dhaula village, Barnala, also left school as his family could not fund his education anymore. "Parties like the Congress, Akali Dal and the BJP need to be thrown out or there will be no employment. I had to leave school to feed my family," he said.

As in 2017, all parties have made a slew of job promises this year also. While the Congress has vowed to generate one lakh jobs every year, the Akali Dal and the Amarinder-BJP combine have announced 75% quota for the state's youth in private jobs.

But, Raja Singh, 24, an unemployed youth in Gumrah, a village deep into rural Amritsar, is both cynical and hopeful. "If they had kept even half the promises they made then the drug problem would not have been so bad. It has been a story of betrayal so let's see," he said, his village largely untouched by the election fervour elsewhere.

Small parties to play big role amid hung result talk in Manipur

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

THE fate of ruling BJP and opposition Congress in Manipur hinges on smaller political parties.

Considering that various surveys predicted a hung House, the support of smaller parties such as National People's Party (NPP), Naga People's Front (NPF) and Janata Dal-United (JD-U) will be the key to the formation of the next government in this Northeast state.

In the 2017 polls, the BJP had bagged 21 seats as against the Congress' 28 in the 60-member Assembly but managed to cobble up the numbers and form a coalition government. The NPF, NPP and some other smaller parties had then lent support to the BJP.

Despite being part of the BJP-headed government, the NPP and the NPF have not entered into any pre-poll alliance with the BJP this time. Also, the NPP's relationship with the BJP has been stormy for the last two years.

Ahead of this polls, the BJP was hit hard by the problem of plenty. Denied tickets, a number of its leaders deserted the party. The JD-U, which was not in the picture until recently, had received a shot in the arms when sitting MLAs Ksh Biren, Kh Joykisan, former MLAs Ashab Uddin, Samuel Jendai, Dr Kh Loken, Dr E Dwijamani and Md Abdul Nasir joined it.

Similarly, retired IAS officer P Saratchandra and former chairman of a state PSU N Joykumar joined the Congress, which had suffered a series of defections over the past five years. Nearly half of its MLAs are now with the BJP.

Also, five BJP leaders joined the NPP. The NPP had contested in nine seats in 2017 and won four. All four MLAs were inducted into the ministry. Buoyed by that success, the party is contesting in 41 seats.

According to people who follow Manipur politics closely, the smaller parties are likely to back any party that will be in a position to form the government. Some suggest that the smaller parties had become bigger as several MLAs and former MLAs joined their fold.

Political analyst Pradip Phanjoubam said the pattern was set in the last polls. "By supporting the BJP, smaller parties had got incentives in the form of berths in the ministry," Phanjoubam said.

Stating that the BJP's ties with the NPP have strained, he said the NPP was keeping its options open. "If bargaining doesn't work out, the NPP will try to align with the Congress. It has set a precedent by accepting the support of all five Congress MLAs in Meghalaya. So, if this can happen in Meghalaya, it can happen in Manipur too," Phanjoubam said.

The NPP is contesting only in ten seats and it has to be with a bigger party. The "division" in the BJP over the selection of candidates is likely to throw up a fractured verdict, he added.

'Babua', 'bua' crumbled UP economy: Shah

LUCKNOW: Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday accused the Samajwadi Party and the BSP of crumbling the economy of Uttar Pradesh and credited Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath with bringing a turnaround in five years in the state. He also said the 2022 elections are for "strengthening Prime Minister Narendra Modi's hands and for making Adityanath chief minister again".

THE Shiromani Akali Dal-Bahujan Samaj Party alliance on Tuesday unveiled its manifesto, claiming it has "brave and path-breaking initiatives", including a shift to solar energy to ensure zero-bill electricity to every house, student cards of ₹10 lakh each for quality education anywhere, ₹10 lakh free annual health insurance for all Punjabis, ₹2,000 per month to all women heads of Blue Card families, 5 lakh pucca houses and five marla pots each to homeless poor, and hiking old-age pension to ₹3,100 and Shagun scheme amount to ₹75,000.

Making a strong pitch for "Punjab for Punjabis", the manifesto says that 75 per cent of all government and private jobs in Punjab will be reserved for Punjabis. The manifesto also promises ₹5 lakh interest-free loan to youth, especially to women, to start their own enterprise.

SAD president Sukhbir Singh Badal and BSP in-charge of Punjab affairs, Randhir Singh Beniwal said, "We have prepared a practical roadmap for revolutionising agriculture by a state-sponsored shift to the commercial exploitation of our farmers' potential. We will introduce path-breaking initiatives such as a network of units for converting maize to ethanol."

To open up professional avenues, the manifesto promises a series of measures. "The SAD-BSP govt will start flying academies to train pilots, flight engineers cabin crew on cost to cost basis to save youth from prohibitive training fees running into multiple lakhs".

SP promises 1kg ghee for poor, free ration for 5 yrs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Lucknow

THE Samajwadi Party on Tuesday promised a kilo of 'ghee' for the poor and free ration for five years if the party forms government in Uttar Pradesh.

Party chief Akhilesh Yadav alleged that the BJP government was set to discontinue its free-ration scheme but deferred it because of the polls.

"The poor availing their rations will get it till the elections. Earlier, it was to be given till November but when the Uttar Pradesh elections were announced, they (BJP) said people will get it till March," Yadav said at a poll rally in Raebareli.

In Unnao he claimed the "haughtiness" of BJP supporters have vanished and they have become numb after the first two phases of the seven-phase election in Uttar Pradesh.

"Those talking about curbing the 'garmi' (haughtiness) of others were subdued by the people. They became frigid after the first phase. Following the second phase... their workers have gone numb. Now, when the people of Unnao cast their votes, the BJP will not be able to open its account here," Yadav said.

The SP chief, in a tweet in Hindi on Monday with the hashtag 'BjpGoBackGo', said, "After seeing the response of people in the second phase it can be said that the SP alliance has completed its century (of seats)." "Thanks to the people for their full support in these two phases. Out of seven phases, two are over. The people are telling the BJP 'go back go'."

In Raebareli, Yadav claimed that the funds for ration have not been earmarked in "Delhi's budget as they know that the election will end in March".

CONSTITUENCIES located in the mining belt of Goa witnessed highest voter turnout in the Assembly elections held on Monday.

According to the Election Commission data, constituencies in the mining region reported more than 80% polling while the overall figure for the state was 78.94% — 79.84% in North Goa and 78.15% in South Goa.

There is a perceptible anger against the ruling BJP among voters in the mining belt as it couldn't restart mining. Over two lakh people depended on mining and related works in the coastal state. The area had witnessed a lull in economic activities due to the ban.

All seats in the mining region are currently represented by BJP MLAs. Chief Minister Dr Pramod Sawant's constituency, Sanquelim, witnessed the highest polling of 89.64% in Goa.

According to Kishor Naik Gawankar, editor of Goamantak Varta, people in the mining belt are agitated against the incumbent government for not reopening the mines.

"People have shown their anger by coming out to vote in large numbers. There are many families who are debt-ridden due to the closure of mines. Besides, the families of jobless mine workers are suffering financially. It will be interesting to see whether the higher voting percentage will hurt the BJP or it still manages to garner the people's support," Gawankar said.

Goa Congress president Girish Chondankar said the Supreme Court had not banned legal mining yet the BJP government failed to resume mining. "Congress party has promised to restart mining activities, therefore people in this particular area came out in large numbers to ouster the BJP from power," he claimed.

Exponential rise in drug hauls in five years: NCB

Darknet, maritime route emerge as preferred modes of trafficking

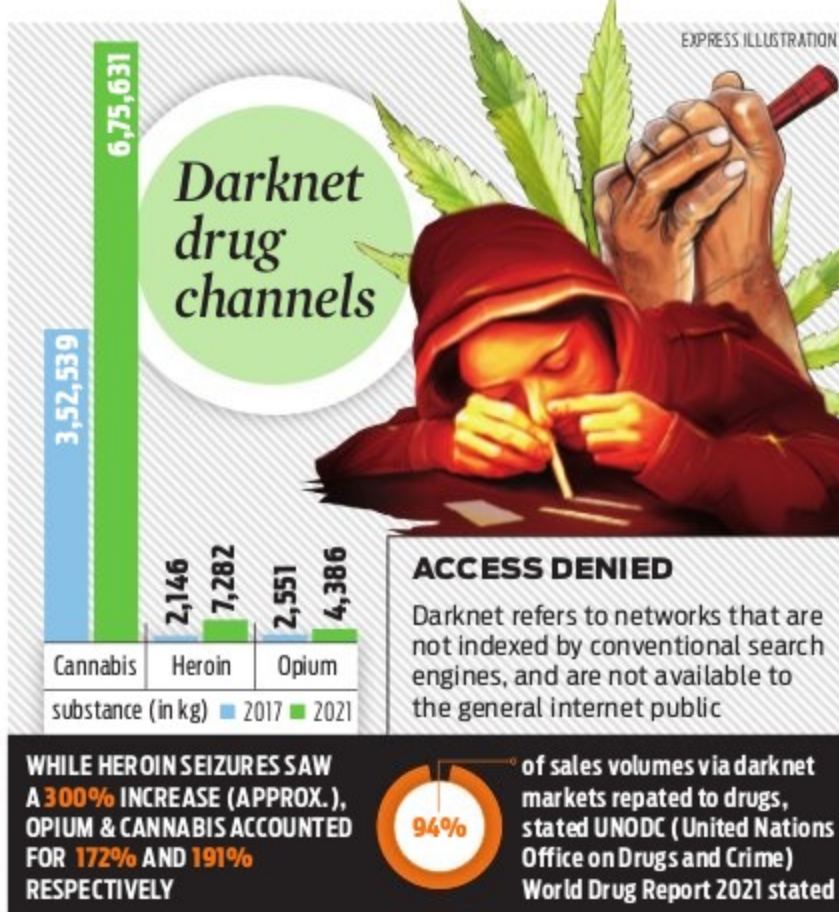

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THERE has been a three times increase in the seizure of heroin from 2,146 kg in 2017 to 7,282 kg in 2021 which is approximately 300 per cent surge, said Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) Director-General S N Pradhan on Tuesday. The NCB chief revealed the figure while inaugurating a 'Darkathon 2022' – an event to find out solutions to counter drug trafficking through the darknet.

Pradhan said there has been an 'exponential' rise in the seizure of drugs in India in the last five years with the darknet and the maritime route emerging as the most preferred modes of trafficking. The NCB chief attributed the enhanced seizures to effective.

Darknet refers to the hidden internet platforms that can only be accessed using specialised software and pre-configured communication protocols for anonymous communication. Drugs cartels and syndicates are known to use this to stay under the radar of law enforcement agencies.

"In 5 years, the country has witnessed exponential increase in seizure of heroin from 2,146 kg in 2017 to 7,282 kg in 2021 which is approximately a 300 per cent increase. Similarly, there is increase of 172 per cent in seizure of opium, from 2,551 kg in 2017 to 4,386 kg in 2021, and 191 per cent increase in seizure of cannabis, from 3,52,539 kg in 2017 to 6,75,631 kg in 2021," Pradhan said.

In a statement, Pradhan also cited the UNODC (United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime) World Drug Report 2021 which stated that 94 per cent of the sales in darknet markets are related to drugs.

The issues being examined in the 'Darkathon' are crawling of the darkweb to identify and catalogue active and genuine darknet markets selling drugs, patrolling the darknet markets to identify traffickers and the drugs they offer and digital foot printing of active traffickers.

Out of a total of 99 accused persons in the case, 24, including 6 women, were acquitted, while the remaining 75 were convicted by the CBI court.

Decision on the point of sentencing will be taken by the court virtually on February 21. Out of 99 accused persons, 53 are suppliers, 33 are the then officials and employees of animal husbandry department, six are the then treasury officers while there are still six such accused persons who remained untraceable so far.

"The special CBI Court of S K Shashi has held Yadav, along with 74 others, guilty in fodder scam case RC47A/96. Out of the total 99 accused persons in the case, 35 were sentenced to three-year jail term," said Anant Vij, Yadav's counsel.

Argument on the quantum of punishment for the remaining 40 convicted persons, including Yadav, will take place on February 21, he said. Yadav's counsel also informed that a petition was filed in the court, citing his poor health condition, that he was under treatment at Rajendra Insti-

WILL MOVE SUPREME COURT: RJD STATE CHIEF

RJD Bihar state chief Jagadanand Singh has said that the party would go to the Supreme Court to challenge the verdict of the CBI court after pronouncement of the quantum of punishment for Lalu Prasad Yadav. "Once the verdict of the court comes, we will move to the apex court for justice," Singh said.

tute of Medical Sciences (RIMS) and was also sent to All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) following the court's order, therefore, the Jail Superintendent of Birsamunda Central Jail in Ranchi may be directed to shift him to RIMS.

"The CBI Court forwarded the petition to the Jail Superintendent with a direction to take a decision in the light of the petition filed in this regard in the interest of Lalu Yadav," said the counsel. The jail authorities, however, looking at his poor health conditions, took a decision to shift him to RIMS, he said. Later, the RJD chief was lodged in room number A-11 of RIMS paying ward. He was lodged in the RIMS earlier too.

Lastly RJD Chief was granted bail by the Jharkhand High Court in fodder scam case RC38A/96, related to illegal withdrawal ₹3.13 crore from Dumka treasury, on April 17, 2021 and was released from jail on April 30. Now, he was sent to the jail again after his conviction

Gloom descends on Rabri Devi's Patna residence

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A pall of gloom enveloped the No 10, Circular Road, residence of former chief minister Rabri Devi in Patna soon after her husband and RJD supremo Lalu Prasad Yadav was convicted in Doranda treasury case, an offshoot of the multi-crore fodder scam, in Ranchi, Jharkhand, on Tuesday.

Hundreds of workers of the RJD, who had assembled at Rabri Devi's residence early on Tuesday morning in the hope of their leader being acquitted in the case, looked disappointed as the news broke of the conviction by the CBI court in Ranchi.

"Our leader has been framed under a conspiracy. There are so many scams but why action is being taken against him alone? Because he helped the poor and always advocated for social justice," said Ganga Rai, a party worker from Raghurpur in Vaishali.

Other party workers like Sudeep Rai, Bhola Yadav, Juman Ansari and Bindeshwar Ram echoed similar views. Lalan Rai, a resident of Danapur in Patna, warned that RJD workers would take the fight onto streets for justice

Land allotted to ABG for marine varsity retracted

AMID CBI booking a Gujarat-based shipbuilding company and its directors for fraudulent loan default to the tune of ₹22,842 crore, the Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation (GIDC), Surat, took possession of the land allotted to a foundation affiliated to the company for setting up a marine university.

The land belonging to ABG Shipyard Company – embroiled in one of the biggest loan default case in the country – is located in Ichhapore, Surat. The GIDC action came ahead of the banks taking possession of the land for recovery of dues. In 2010, the Gujarat government had allotted four acres to the Land allotted to ABG-affiliated foundation was not being used for the purpose

ABG Foundation.

The GIDC had allotted the 1.20 lakh square-metre land to ABG Shipyard Company Foundation for setting up a marine university in 2007. The land was allotted by the state government at a concessional rate. The market value of the land is estimated to be ₹100 crore.

Yogesh Singh Parmar, executive engineer, GIDC Surat region, said the land was not being used for the purpose for which it was allotted.

GIDC sources said there was no office of the trust at the address given by the ABG Foundation Trust. According to the GPP Act, Section 52, notice was issued by GIDC on the registered address of the trust but they were returned from that address. The notice has been sent to the registered office of the ABG Company for possession of the land. As per law, GIDC has given final notices to ABG Foundation Trust, but it did not receive any reply.

The CBI has raided 13 premises of ABG Shipyard in Bharuch and Surat in Gujarat, and Pune in Maharashtra. Sources said looking at the proceedings in this scam case, the assets of ABG will be seized by the banks in the coming days.

However, the GIDC has taken back the land before the banks have taken it into their custody, said activist M S Sheikh.

School forgoes 'crucifix' in uniform logo 'under duress'

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

WHILE the hijab row rages on, another controversy has erupted over the usage of a 'crucifix' symbol in the logo on the uniform of a private school in north Chhattisgarh.

With the protests from the part of parents worsening, the management of the New Life English Higher Secondary School, at Janakpur in Korriya district of the state has decided to withdraw the symbolic logo from the uniform apparently 'under duress'.

School principal Aradhna Patel, in a press statement on Tuesday, said, "Our school has been using the logo on uniforms for the past 30 years and no one ever objected to it. Our institute never intends to hurt the sentiments of any community. Keeping in view the present scenario, the school management committee has decided to change the symbolic logo on the uniform so that communal harmony prevails." Over a thousand students are enrolled in the New Life school from nursery to Class XII.

Some parents had recently strongly opposed the depiction of a 'cross' in the logo of the school alleging that the school got the new uniform prepared only this year and the modified logo was not there earlier.

BJP march to Rajasthan House stopped

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

STEPPING UP pressure on the Ashok Gehlot-led Congress government, BJP workers tried to 'gherao' the Rajasthan Assembly on Tuesday for CBI probe into the REET paper leak.

In the morning, BJP workers marched towards the Assembly from their party headquarters but were stopped by the police. When scuffle broke out, the police chased them away. Led by BJP state president Satish Poonia, Leader of Opposition Gulabchand Kataria, and his deputy Rajendra Rathod, the BJP workers sat on the road to continue their demonstration. Poonia and other leaders made symbolic arrests.

Poonia said his party had a one-point demand of CBI investigation. "SOG is unable to take action on the influential people. The Congress Government is not agreeing. The rights of the unemployed have been trampled," he claimed.

While the BJP leaders and workers were out on the road, Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot pulled up the opposition in the House for defaming his government. "The motive of demanding the REET case to CBI is to defame the government. Jobs get stuck in the process. We want to give 62,000 jobs in the next few days. They want to stop the process."

The CM said that BJP did not participate in the Assembly proceedings as it remained adamant on demand for CBI probe. "For two days, the BJP is boycotting the House," he said.

Thackeray and Pawar's chemistry a sight to behold

Aaditya Thackeray-Ajit Pawar chemistry has come to the notice of the public. Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar was seen with the Guardian Minister of Mumbai suburbs Aaditya Thackeray on February 11 during a tour of the latter's pet development projects in Worli constituency. During the early morning tour, the junior Thackeray drove the vehicle while Pawar was beside him. This shows that the Thackeray-Pawar equation has become firmer owing to better political workings within the administration. Thackeray had visited Baramati, Ajit Pawar's hometown where appreciate Pawar family's works there.

Congress not here to play, proves state party chief

The Congress party is usually mild-tempered when it comes to attacking its opponents but a recent protest of Maharashtra Congress has shown that the grand old party's Maharashtra unit is a cut above the units of the party in other states. This was proved during state Congress president Nana Patole's strike in front of the house of former chief minister Devendra Fadnis against PM Narendra Modi's statement that Maharashtra Congress helped spread the virus from to other parts of the country by giving free tickets to migrant labourers. BJP leaders even dared Maharashtra Congress not to come to the BJP leader's bungalow but state Congress chief spokesperson Atul Londe did a 'surgical strike' by entering the bungalow showing that the Congress under Nana Patole is strides apart.

Maha influence in Goa polls grows this time

State Politicians in Maharashtra have played a major role in the Goa state Assembly elections. Former Maharashtra chief minister Devendra Fadnis was made in-charge of the BJP for Goa Assembly polls while Maharashtra Congress has been given the financial responsibility of the party during the Goa elections. Many Maharashtra leaders were seen at most of the locations of Goa either campaigning for their respective party or handling the resources. Devendra Fadnis even brought his close and trusted team of BJP leaders including Girish Mahajan, Prasad Lad and Chitra Wagh, to Goa and gave them the responsibility of specific constituencies.

Aaditya to be Shiv Sena face for Lok Sabha polls

Shiv Sena had decided to bring in future leader Aaditya Thackeray up to a larger role in the upcoming Lok Sabha elections. Incidentally, party leader Sanjay Raut has declared that the next Lok Sabha elections will be fought under the leadership of Aaditya Thackeray. He had been in Goa recently to campaign for his party candidates and is likely to go to Uttar Pradesh as well. Party chief and CM Uddhav Thackeray has been resting after his neck spine surgery and could not travel much, therefore the Shiv Sena is internally preparing to hand the baton over to Aaditya Thackeray.

SpiceJet back in black; challenges far from over

Faces legal cases, loss of ₹1,262-cr till Dec '21, liability of ₹13,602 cr

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AMIDST on-going legal tussles which include a winding up order, private carrier SpiceJet on Tuesday surprised everyone by reporting a net profit of ₹23.28 crore for the quarter ending December (Q3FY22).

SpiceJet said that the airline reported profit despite 'one-time exceptional adjustment' of ₹77.46 crore on account of settlement for Bombardier aircraft for the same period. In the year ago period (Q3FY21), the company had reported a loss of ₹57 crore while in the September quarter it had posted a loss of ₹56 crore.

SpiceJet also recorded a 74% increase in Q3FY22 revenues to ₹2,679 crore as against ₹1,539 crore in the corresponding quarter last fiscal.

SpiceJet bouncing back to profitability is a positive for the aviation sector, given market leader IndiGo had also reported profit in Q3, indicating recovery. However, SpiceJet continues to have a rough ride given its high accumulated loss (₹1,262 crore for the 9 months ended Dec 2021), liability (₹13,602 cr as on Dec 2021) and legal cases.

₹77.46-cr settlement for Bombardier plane

The airline reported profit despite one-time adjustment of ₹77.46 cr on account of settlement for Bombardier aircraft. In Q3FY21, the company had reported ₹57 cr loss while in Sept quarter it had posted ₹56 cr loss.

The airline faced a major blow on Monday when former promoter and media-mogul Kalanithi Maran declined its offer made for a one-time settlement to end the long-standing share-transfer dispute between the two parties. Maran's lawyer informed the Supreme Court that the offer of ₹600 crore made by SpiceJet is not found to be feasible as the total amount owed to Maran was around ₹920 crore. The court scheduled the next hearing on March 2.

The top court is hearing another case related to non-payment of ₹24 million (₹180 cr) by SpiceJet to Swiss company Credit Suisse, in which the Madras High Court had permitted winding-up petition and directed the official liquidator to take over the assets of the airline. On Jan 28, the apex court gave SpiceJet three weeks' time to settle the matter with the Swiss firm. SpiceJet, in its Q3 result said, the company is under discussion with Credit Suisse AG and "expects to settle the matter in the given time frame."

Splitting MD & chairman role voluntary: Sebi

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

THE top 500 listed entities will not be required to split the post of chairman and MD/CEO compulsorily from April 1 this year. Sebi at its board meeting on Tuesday decided to make the corporate governance reform applicable on a "voluntary basis", given the "unsatisfactory" level of compliance by the companies so far.

The Kotak Committee, formed by Sebi in June 2017, recommended splitting the post to provide a better and more balanced governance structure in corporate practices.

Sebi in its board meeting of March 2018 had mandated that effective April 1 2020, the top 500 listed entities will ensure the chairperson would be a non-executive director and not be related to the MD and CEO. The Sebi at the instance of industry extended the deadline for the implementation by two years.

However, noting the "unsatisfactory" level of compliance where only 54% of the companies had complied with this rule by December 2021, up from 50.4% in September 2019, Sebi decided to make the provision voluntary "at this juncture".

It cited constraints amid the pandemic and representations from various stakeholders as reasons for easing the norm.

"Making the reform voluntary gives the go-by to a well established principle of corporate governance whereby the posts are held by independent persons," said corporate lawyer HP Ranina.

"Considering the difficulty faced by even the top 500 companies in identifying the right candidates to helm their board, it is only fair that the same is made voluntary," said Chirag M. Shah, Of counsel, Mansukhlal Hiralal & Co.

Retail sales see slump in Jan amid Omicron surge

RETAIL sales in January 2022 have suffered due to the restrictions imposed by states in an attempt to curb the third wave of the pandemic, according to a survey by the Retailers Association of India (RAI).

The survey revealed that sales in January 2022 were at 91% of the pre-pandemic sales levels (January 2019) as well as in January 2020.

"While some of the states allowed for retail to function with fewer limitations responding to the decline in the number of hospitalisations, others like Delhi and Haryana continued with heavy restrictions," it said, adding the restrictions culminated into negative sales sending categories like beauty, well-ness & personal care (-24%), furniture & furnishings (-12%), apparel & clothing (-7%) and footwear (-4%) back into the red as compared to pre-pandemic levels.

Other categories that were on a steady growth trajectory such as CBIT too experienced a dip in sales growth rate, the survey noted.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday allowed Future Retail Ltd (FRL) to approach the Delhi High Court seeking a nod to resume proceedings before the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) on its merger with Reliance Group.

This comes after earlier this month the apex court had reserved orders on FRL's plea on whether NCLT proceedings in connection with its deal with

The Supreme Court last week had also rejected US e-commerce giant's request to file a written submission in the matter.

LIC IPO: Policyholders must update PAN in Feb

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

POLICYHOLDERS interested in investing in the Initial Public Offer (IPO) of the Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) should update their PAN details in the policy records by 28 February 2022. The policyholders can do so by visiting the insurer's on-line PAN registration page.

In order to help its existing 28.26 crore policyholders reap the benefits of its mega IPO issue, the government-owned life insurer has reserved nearly 10% of the offer size for policyholders.

Those having one or more policies as on Feb 13, 2022, would be eligible to apply in this offer and avail of the discount. According to LIC's draft red herring prospectus (DRHP), over 3.16 crore shares are on offer. Also, it offers a separate reservation for its employees under the Employee Reservation Portion that will not exceed 5% of its post-offer equity share capital.

"With policyholders' quota, we are also expecting a discount which will boost the return on investment," says retail broking house Angel One.

As per the draft papers, non-resident Indians (NRIs) are eligible to invest in IPOs, and this category will not be eligible under the 'Policyholder Reservation Portion'.

Also, staff bidding in the Employee Reservation Portion can bid through the ASBA (Application Supported by Blocked Amount) and the UPI mechanism, and eligible employees can sell the equity if they choose to do so, said the draft papers. Retired LIC employees cannot do so under the 'Employee Reservation Portion'.

Existing employees having a demat account in his/her name can also apply.

CABINET APPROVES TAX CUT ON DIESEL TO EASE PRICES

Thailand's cabinet on Tuesday agreed to cut the excise tax on diesel by 3 baht ($0.0928) per litre for three months, from 5.99 baht currently, to help mitigate the impact of high energy prices. The tax cut will reduce revenue by 17 billion baht ($526 million), but that should be partially offset by a rise in other tax revenue as the economy is recovering, Finance Minister Arkhom Termpittayaaisit told a news conference. "The tax is necessary as the government has extended the cap of diesel prices at 30 baht per litre until the end of May," he said. But the country's oil fund, which stabilises domestic prices, is still unable to borrow 30 billion baht as earlier approved by the cabinet. Arkhom said. The tax cut will give the energy ministry flexibility in keeping retail fuel prices not exceeding 30 baht per litre, said deputy finance minister Santi Promphat. Meanwhile, Thailand's cabinet on Tuesday also approved a package of incentives including tax cuts and subsidies to promote a shift to electric vehicles in the country.

INDONESIA

EXPORTS BELOW ESTIMATE AFTER COAL SHIPMENT BAN

Indonesia's export growth slowed more than expected in January, after authorities in the world's top thermal coal exporter banned coal shipments, a move that shocked the global energy market. The January trade surplus was bigger than expected at $930 million, however, official data showed on Tuesday, compared with a $190 million surplus seen in a Reuters poll, as imports rose more slowly than predicted. Indonesia on January 1 suspended coal exports due to low inventory at power plants. Shipments resumed gradually from January 10 but the ban still applies to miners not compliant with domestic sales requirements. The resource-rich country has recorded a trade surplus every month since May 2020 due to an upward trend in commodity prices as countries lift Covid-19 restrictions. January's exports grew 25.31% annually, short of the 33.86% expected in a Reuters poll and the slowest increase in the past year. Total exports were valued at $19.16 billion, the smallest since June. Exports of products classified as mineral fuel — much of which is coal — dropped by $2 billion from December.

PHILIPPINES

TALKS TO BEGIN WITH UAE ON TRADE, INVESTMENT DEAL

The Philippines and the United Arab Emirates, Manila's top trade partner in the Middle East, on Tuesday agreed to start negotiations on bilateral trade and investment pact, a joint statement released by the Philippines government said. Thousands of Filipinos also work in the UAE, sending home more than $1 billion in remittances each year. Philippines Trade and Industry Secretary Ramon Lopez and Emirati Minister of State for Foreign Trade Thani Al Zeyoudi signed the joint statement to start Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement negotiations, the statement said. That followed the two sides concluding talks on an Investment Promotion and Protection Agreement, it said. Bilateral trade between the two countries rose last year 35.7% to $951 million, the statement said. The UAE is seeking CEPA agreements with several countries including India, Israel, Turkey, South Korea and Indonesia. "These initiatives are expected to boost trade and investments between two countries, leading to more diversified economic activities, development of new industries, employment generation, and higher consumer spending as we partner for shared prosperity," Lopez said.

'IT sector revenue likely to hit $350 bn by FY26'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

@ Bengaluru

THE information and technology (IT) sector can achieve the target of $350 billion revenue by FY26, growing at a rate of 11-14%. The industry crossed the $200 billion revenue mark, and is estimated to reach $227 billion revenue in FY22, with $30 billion incremental revenue in the year, said Nasscom.

In the Strategic Review 2022, Nasscom on Tuesday said the industry is recording the highest ever growth since 2011. Exports, including hardware, witnessed a growth of 17.2%, clocking revenue of $178 billion, and the domestic revenue of the technology industry recorded a 1.2X growth over FY2019 to reach about $50 billion.

E-commerce recorded a growth of 39% to reach $79 billion in 2021-22.

Nasscom said that FY22 has been a breakthrough year for the Indian technology industry. India has emerged as a global hub for digital talent with over 5 million workforce, and the industry saw nearly 10% estimated growth in direct employee pool with an addition of around 4,50,000 to its employee base.

The Indian tech industry has also reskilled about 2,80,000 employees in FY22. There are over 1.8 million women in the workforce, said Nasscom.

Debjani Ghosh, President, Nasscom, said, "Domestic market emerged as a great propeller, nearing a total of $50 billion, owing to India's tech adoption with public digital platforms like Aadhaar, UPI and CoWIN playing a large part in delivering citizen services."

She said the industry is expanding to Tier-II and -III cities such as Coimbatore, Ahmedabad, Jaipur and Indore.

Excited about India's 5G tech stack: IT minister

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

IT and telecom minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Tuesday said he is very excited about the 5G technology stack which has been developed in India.

"I am very excited about the 5G technology stack which has been developed in India. Space-tech has been opened, a new central bank digital currency has been announced, quantum computing, cyber security initiatives, and semiconductors are a reality now," said the minister.

The minister, while speaking at the IT industry grouping Nasscom's strategic review press conference, also mentioned that the government has got superb response from the semiconductor industry participants.

In December, the government had approved a ₹76,000-crore production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme to promote semiconductor and display manufacturing in the country.

On Monday, minerals and natural resources-focused Vedanta announced a pact with contract manufacturer Foxconn on the semiconductors front. Even the Tata Group has shown interest in the chip making. "Very happy that within such a short time frame, superb response has been received from the semiconductor industry participants," said Vaishnaw.

The minister also hailed the IT industry for adding 4.5 lakh new people in FY22 to take the direct employment tally to 50 lakh. The $227-billion industry's focus on spreading out to newer centres like Kolkata and Nagpur for setting up offices was also welcomed by the minister.

Hiranandani Group enters tech biz

REAL estate major Hiranandani Group is foraying into technology-led consumer services with its new venture 'Tez Platforms', which is set to launch this year, at an initial outlay of about ₹1,000 crore. The Mumbai-based developer in the next 2-3 years has plans to invest about ₹3,500 crore in the venture.

opportunities in the arena of social media, entertainment, gaming and e-sports, e-commerce, personal mobility, artificial intelligence and blockchain linked solutions. The Group said it has a roadmap to launch two highly sought-after services in 2022, followed by another three in the next year.

"We believe that the potential of digital has barely scratched the surface... Through Tez Platforms we intend to incubate and work with leading technologies and partners (both domestic and global) in other areas as well, in the next steps of our journey," said Darshan Hiranandani, CEO-Hiranandani Group.

Tez Platforms has plans to hire over 250 employees in FY 2023.

Novak prepared to miss out on Grand Slams

AP @ London

IF forced to choose, Novak Djokovic said he would skip the French Open and Wimbledon, foregoing the chance to overtake Rafael Nadal's record haul of 21 Grand Slams, rather than get vaccinated against Covid-19. And Djokovic is also still smarting about being deported last month from Australia in a drama about his vaccination status that polarized opinion worldwide. Speaking in an interview broadcast Tuesday by the BBC, the 20-time Grand Slam champion said he is still not vaccinated, and prepared to sacrifice titles to stay that way.

If need be, not defending his titles at Roland Garros and Wimbledon and missing other tournaments is "the price that I am willing to pay," said the Serb, comments likely to further boost his hero-status among some opponents of vaccination. Djokovic said he is not opposed to vaccinations and sought to distance himself from anti-vaccination campaigners, saying: "I have never said that I am part of that movement."

But he said "everyone has the right to choose, to act, or say what ever they feel is appropriate for them" and that he believes in "the freedom to choose what you put into your body. And, for me, that is essential."

"I am trying to be in tune with my body as much as I possibly can," he said. "I understand the consequences of my decision," Djokovic said. "I understand that not being vaccinated today, you know, I am unable to travel to most of the tournaments at the moment."

Asked if he would be prepared to miss the French Open in May, he repeated: "That is the price that I am willing to pay."

With few regulars missing, chance for India to test other options for the T20 World Cup

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

THE T20 World Cup in Australia is only eight months away and India more or less have their core ready in place. They may still be far of from identifying their best XI, but they have definitely earmarked the players who will be contention for the event to be held in October-November. With several first-choice players unavailable for the three-match series against West Indies starting at Eden Gardens on Wednesday provides India an ideal opportunity to further narrow down their resources.

While the core is intact, what is still not clear at this stage is the make-up of the XI and the sort of combination India are looking to play Down Under. With KL Rahul, all-rounders Washington Sundar, Axar Patel, R Ashwin and pacers Jasprit Bumrah and Mohammed Shami unavailable for this series, this series is a chance to test the back-ups. Incidentally, India would be going back to their wrist-spinners — Yuzvendra Chahal and Kuldeep Yadav — who were not deemed good enough for the T20 World Cup held in the UAE last October-November.

With the World Cup being held in Australia — conditions were wrist-spinners generally tend to do well — India may take at least one of them. Playing both may lead to them compromising on batting depth, something they seem to be keen on. Similarly, India have to decide who their back-up opener is as there is a three-way fight between Ishan Kishan, Ruturaj Gaikwad and Venkatesh Iyer. The Sri Lanka series that follows soon after the Indian Premier League will be an audition for certain roles.

Speaking on the eve of the first T20 against West Indies, skipper Rohit Sharma said, this series will help India keep the alternate players ready. "The idea is to identify the players who are going to play the World Cup and try to give them the game time. There are a lot of players who are injured and not here with the team. Come the World Cup, I don't know who's going to be fit and who's not going to be fit, but we've just got to get the back-ups ready. We have a packed schedule and injuries will happen. It is important that we give guys game time keeping everything in mind. So it is important to use this series and after this to our good potential and see whoever are likely to play — what they can offer," said Rohit.

Leading up to the World Cup, it will be interesting to see how the management handles various players, including Hardik Pandya, Chahal and Kuldeep Yadav. The spinners are big weapons when it comes to wicket-taking ability, but them not being handy with bat make matters complicated. "They have been a great asset in the past for us and will continue to be. It is just that things should start falling in place for them....At the same time, there are so many options for us, because when you play the shortest format, you have to look at someone with the bowling skill, who can bat as well," said Rohit.

Inter-taining battle on the cards

Liverpool and Bayern Munich, two of Europe's biggest aristocrats, aim to take a big step towards the quarterfinals of the Champions League. A look at two more last-16 fixtures...

Inter Milan vs Liverpool

BACKGROUND

In Mo Salah, Sadio Mane and Diogo Jota, the Reds have assembled a mean strike force. They have all taken turns to go on scoring runs and Jurgen Klopp will hope they can produce the goods in Milan. The hosts, even after the departure of Romelu Lukaku, have not struggled for goals, having scored 55 in Serie A alone. It suggests that there could be this goals in this game.

BIG QUESTION

Who wins the battle between Lautaro Martinez and Virgil van Dijk and Salah and Milan Skriniar at two opposite ends could decide the match.

RB Salzburg vs Bayern

BACKGROUND

The Bavarians lost their last match to Bochum 2-4, but are odds on to go deep in this tournament. They retain the ability to score buckets of goals and should probably finish the match as a contest before the return leg. Salzburg, however, will give it a proper go. They are known to play counter-attacking football so will get chances on the break against a possession-centric side.

BIG QUESTION

Considering the German league is a bit one-sided, this is the competition that Bayern really want. Can they begin another successful title tilt?

16 Both Inter and Liverpool have identical records in the league (16 wins, 6 draws, 2 losses to be in second place).

13 Bayern, six-time CL winners, have scored 13 goals in their last four matches in the Bundesliga.

Ramkumar goes down to Mathias in first round

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AFTER the first round exit of India's Prajnesh Gunneswaran in the singles competition on Monday, fellow countryman Ramkumar Ramanathan also followed suit in the Bengaluru Open 2 ATP Challenger on Tuesday. The latter, who won the first set against Frenchman Mathias Bourgue, went down in the next two to lose 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 at the KSLTA Stadium.

Seventh seed Ramkumar

clinched the first set, but his luck ran out in the second set and his composure as his French rival broke his serve in the second game and went on to win the set 6-3. The third looked no different with Bourgue moving into the next round. With this, India's best hope for a singles title has been washed away, just the second day into main rounds. However, Arjun Khade and Siddharth Rawat are still in the fray.

In fact, things also did not go according to plan for eighth seed Chun-hsin Tseng, who had won the Bengaluru Open 1 title on Sunday, as the player went down to Greece qualifier Markos Kalovelonis, 6-2, 6-2.

Several other seeded players bit the dust in their opening encounters too. Swiss Antoine Bellier beat fourth seed Federico Gaio of Italy 6-4, 6-3 while Andrey Kuznetsov of Russia won a long-fought battle against fifth-seeded Czech Vit Kopriava 6-2, 1-6, 6-3. However, Czech Republic's Borna Gojovic survived a scare against qualifier Dominik Palan before prevailing 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

HI may opt for two women's teams this year

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

HOCKEY India (HI) is currently in discussions with regards to how to approach the rest of the year in terms of workload management. Considering there is the World Cup, Commonwealth as well as the Asian Games in the space of three months (July to September), it's practically impossible to have the same set of players. With the World Cup and the Asian Games (doubles up as an Olympic qualifier) being more important, they are keeping all options on the table, including having a second team or at least rotating the squad.

"Having discussions around that," women's coach, Janneke Schopman, said during a virtual interaction on Tuesday. "I don't know yet what the plan will be. We are right now focussing on the World Cup and the Asian Games is also important because we can qualify directly for the Olympics. We are looking at what will be the best way for us to prepare."

IOA boss, Narender Batra, has asked Hockey India's decision makers to 'meet' him at the earliest because of the men's team's 'unacceptable' results in the last few months. Following their bronze at the Olympics, they finished third at the Asian Champions Trophy in December.

SEEING THROUGH THE GREEN PLAN OF CORPORATES

Green pledges taken by the corporate world to fully switch to renewable sources, eliminate fossil fuel, produce electric cars, etc., make headlines across the globe. However, a recent study shows that these companies are failing to take significant enough steps to meet their pledge and many of them are misleading consumers by using accounting practices that make their environmental goals relatively meaningless or are excluding key parts of their businesses in calculations. Here's a look

25 COMPANIES

In the report by the NewClimate Institute, an environmental organisation working to combat global warming, the researchers studied corporates, including Amazon and Walmart, which made "bold" climate pledges and who due to their size, are seen as highly influential

40percent

Even though many companies have pledged to reach net-zero emissions, the 25 companies they studied have collectively committed to reduce emissions by about 40%—not the 100% that people might be led to believe from the companies' net-zero or carbon-neutral pledges

24 out of 25 companies rely on carbon offsets

Among the 25 companies, 24 relied too heavily on carbon offsets, which are rife with problems. Offsetting often relies on carbon removal ventures such as reforestation projects. These projects are not ideal since forests can be razed, re-releasing carbon into the air

Ambiguous corporate goals

The report called Amazon's goal of net-zero carbon by 2040 unsubstantiated. It said the company was unclear whether its goal referred solely to CO₂ emissions or to all greenhouse gases. Further, it was not clear to what degree Amazon planned to reduce its own emissions

TWO GIANTS AND THEIR TARGETS

However, Amazon countered this and said that it is on a path towards powering its operations with 100% renewables by 2025, five years ahead of its original target. The report also points to the case of CVS Health, a pharma company that could potentially achieve its 2030 green house gas emissions target with little effort because it compared that target with a base year that included extraordinarily high emissions

SCOPE 1, 2 & 3

Most of the companies studied have outlined plans to reduce their Scope 1 and Scope 2 emissions.

These emissions are released directly by the company or by its using electricity

But those companies didn't address their Scope 3 emissions; these include emissions released by suppliers or customers that use their products

Scope 3 emissions account for, on average, 87% of all emissions for the 25 companies studied

The practices deployed

Many companies have pledged to make their emissions reductions or to offset their emissions through such techniques as planting carbon-capturing forests over self-imposed periods ranging from 2030 to 2050

STUDY RESULTS

A CASE IN POINT

Nestle, among the companies with lowest marks, had emissions-reduction plans that covered only portions of its business and its net-zero targets relied upon carbon offsets. The company also provided little detail on the renewable sources it was pursuing. But, Nestle rebutted that its targets do cover all its activities and that it's reducing 50% of its GHG emissions by 2030

BETTER PERFORMERS—MAERSK AND WALMART

Shipping company Maersk received the best ratings by pursuing alternative fuels. It has partnered with a renewable energy company to establish a factory for e-methanol. The report commended Walmart, which pledged to be net-zero by 2040, for following good practice by committing to reduce its operational emissions to zero without the use of offsets and setting near-term goals for those reductions which include using 100% renewable energy by 2035. But Walmart was faulted for not including Scope 3 emissions

THE REPORT SUGGESTS THREE MAJOR POINTS

1 Companies should take more responsibility to reduce Scope 3 emissions. 2 Focus on short-term emissions reduction for the next five to 10 years. 3 Companies should set specific targets with transparency, instead of ambiguous net-zero goals

TOP 8 GHG CONTRIBUTORS

Saudi Aramco, Chevron, Gazprom, ExxonMobil, National Iranian Oil Co. BP, Royal Dutch Shell and Coal India are the top eight GHG producing companies globally. The top 20 polluters were also responsible for more than one-third of all GHG emissions in the modern era

China-style lockdown ruled out in Hong Kong

COVID

HONG KONG: The city's leader on Tuesday said she would not impose a mainland China-style hard lockdown as the city faces its worst coronavirus wave to date, even as she vowed no switch to living with the Covid-19 pandemic.

The comments came as hospitals began to buckle under the strain of rising infections with at least two medical facilities placing patients in beds outside their entrances.

No place in the world has managed to return to zero Covid cases after such an outbreak except mainland China, which has imposed citywide lockdowns and mass stay-at-home orders when even a handful of cases are detected.

Hong Kong Chief Executive Carrie Lam ruled out that approach. "We have no plans whatsoever to impose a complete, wholesale lockdown," she told reporters.

But she also rejected calls from some public health experts and business figures to switch to a mitigation strategy saying zero-Covid remained her administration's goal.

"We have to continue to fight this anti-epidemic battle. Surrendering to the virus is not an option," Lam said.

Hong Kong authorities will continue to use smaller-scale district lockdowns, with testing of all residents in housing blocks where cases are detected, she added.

For more than two years, Hong Kong has followed China's strategy, pursuing zero virus cases with largely closed borders, lengthy quarantines, contact tracing and stringent social distancing laws.

WHO calls for higher job rates in east Europe

Infections rising in the region with case counts of six countries doubling in two weeks time

COVID

COPENHAGEN: The WHO's European office on Tuesday called for increased vaccination efforts in Eastern Europe, warning that the Omicron "tidal wave" was heading eastwards.

The agency's Europe office said on Tuesday that health officials are turning their attention to growing rates of Covid-19 infection in Eastern Europe, where six countries—including Russia and Ukraine—have seen a doubling in case counts over the last two weeks.

Dr. Hans Kluge said the 53-country region, which stretches to former Soviet republics into central Asia, has now tallied more than 165 million confirmed coronavirus cases and 1.8 million deaths linked to the pandemic—including 25,000 in the last week alone.

"Today, our focus is towards the east of the WHO European region. Over the past two weeks, cases of Covid-19 have more than doubled in six countries in this part of the region (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, the Russian Federation, and Ukraine)."

"As anticipated, the Omicron wave is moving east: 10 eastern Member States have now detected this variant," he said.

Omicron, however, is milder than previous variants and health care systems in most countries around the world aren't under strain.

Kluge sought to put an emphasis on improving vaccination rates, which have lagged in Eastern Europe compared to the rest of the region. He said less than 40% of people over age 60 in Bosnia, Bulgaria, Kyrgyzstan, Ukraine and Uzbekistan have completed a full Covid-19 vaccine series.

He called on governments and health officials "to closely examine the local reasons influencing lower vaccine demand and acceptance, and devise tailored interventions to increase vaccination rates urgently, based on the context-specific evidence." He also said it was "not the moment to lift measures that we know work in reducing the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic"

"These measures include avoiding crowded locations, wearing masks indoors, improving ventilation and using rapid tests to identify cases early, Kluge added.

The WHO Europe chief also highlighted his "message of hope"—pointing to high levels of immunity through vaccination or recovery from infection, and the looming end of winter that causes many people to gather indoors, where the virus can spread more easily.

Rocket built by China to crash into moon

SPACE

WASHINGTON: Astronomy experts say they originally misread the secrets of the night sky last month: it turns out that a rocket expected to crash into the moon in early next month was built by China, not SpaceX.

A rocket will indeed strike the lunar surface on March 4, but contrary to what had been announced, it was built not by Elon Musk's company, but by Beijing, experts now say.

The rocket is now said to be 2014-065B, the booster for the Chang'e 5-T1, launched in 2014 as part of the Chinese space agency's lunar exploration program.

The surprise announcement was made by astronomer Bill Gray, who first identified the future impact, and admitted his mistake last weekend. "This (honest mistake) just emphasises the problem with lack of proper tracking of these deep space objects," tweeted astronomer Jonathan McDowell.

PERU'S CHILD MUMMIES

ARCHAEOLOGY

Six mummified children thought to have been sacrificed hundreds of years ago, apparently to accompany a dead nobleman to the afterlife, have been unearthed in a tomb near Lima, archaeologists reported. The tiny skeletons, wrapped tightly in cloth, were found in the grave of an important man, possibly a political figure, discovered last November at Cajamarquilla. "The children could be close relatives and were placed... in different parts of the entrance of the tomb," archaeologist Pieter Van Dalen, told. AFP

Mining plans in Amazon

ENVIRONMENT

Brazilian President Bolsonaro launched a plan to expand gold mining in Amazon, drawing flak from environmentalists for bolstering an industry accused of deforestation and pollution. He signed a decree creating a programme to support the development of artisanal mining, a controversial activity known as "garimpo".

Flurry of diplomacy to avert war

Glimmer of hope as Kremlin signals there is still a way to head off Ukraine invasion

MOSCOW

AS the West warily eyed Russian troop movements near Ukraine, European leaders headed to the region on Tuesday for last-minute diplomacy, buoyed by signals from the Kremlin that there was still a way to head off a feared invasion and avoid war.

After weeks of rising tensions, the tenor changed on Monday, when Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov indicated that Russia was ready to keep talking about the security grievances that have led to the crisis. In what could be another sign that the Kremlin would like to lower the temperature, Russia's Defense Ministry announced on Tuesday that some units participating in military exercises would begin returning to their bases.

While the US agreed that there was still a possibility of a diplomatic path out, Washington, London and other allies have kept up their warnings that those forces could move on Ukraine at any moment.

Russia denies it has any plans to invade Ukraine, despite placing troops on Ukraine's borders to the north, south and east and launching massive military drills nearby.

The new glimmers of hope accompanied a flurry of diplomacy. German Chancellor Olaf Scholz planned to meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Moscow, a day after he sat down with Ukraine's leader in Kyiv. Foreign Minister Zbigniew Rau of Poland, one of Russia's most strident European critics, was also in Moscow on Tuesday to meet Lavrov, while Ukraine's foreign minister hosted his Italian counterpart.

Lavrov's comments came at a made-for-TV meeting with Putin and seemed designed to send a message to the world about the Russian leader's position. The foreign minister argued that Moscow should hold more talks, despite the West's refusal to consider Russia's main demands.

The talks "can't go on indefinitely, but I would suggest to continue and expand them at this stage", Lavrov said, noting that Washington has offered to discuss limits for missile deployments in Europe, restrictions on military drills and other confidence-building measures.

Moscow wants guarantees that NATO will not allow Ukraine and other former Soviet countries to join as members. It also wants the alliance to halt weapons deployments to Ukraine and roll back its forces from Eastern Europe.

Lavrov said possibilities for talks "are far from being exhausted". Putin noted that the West could try to draw Russia into "endless talks" and questioned if there was still a chance to reach agreement. Lavrov replied that his ministry would not allow the US and its allies to stonewall Russia's main requests.

Meanwhile, the US reacted coolly. "The path for diplomacy remains available if Russia chooses to engage constructively," White House principal deputy press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said. AP

Myanmar says it won't attend ASEAN foreign ministers meeting

BANGKOK

MYANMAR will not participate in this week's meetings in Cambodia of foreign ministers from the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), spurning an invitation to send a non-political representative instead of its chief diplomat, its government has said.

Cambodia, the current ASEAN chair, said earlier this month that members of the regional group had failed to reach a consensus on inviting Myanmar Foreign Minister Wunna Maung Lwin to its meetings on Thursday and Friday in Cambodia's capital, Phnom Penh. Wunna Maung Lwin was appointed foreign minister after the military seized power in Myanmar last year, ousting the democratically elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi.

The decision to restrict Myanmar's participation reflected a disagreement over Myanmar's lack of cooperation in implementing measures agreed upon by the 10-member group last year to help ease that country's violent political crisis following the army's takeover. The head of Myanmar's military government, Senior Gen. Min Aung Hlaing, was not invited to last October's virtual meeting of ASEAN leaders because of the disagreement. That rebuke was issued shortly after Myanmar declined to let an ASEAN special envoy meet with Suu Kyi, who has been in detention since the military took power.

"Despite the efforts made by the ASEAN chair and Myanmar to promote cooperation in ASEAN, it is regrettable to see the return of the decision made last year which Myanmar in principle is unable to accept," Myanmar's Foreign Affairs Ministry said in a statement Monday night. "In this regard, Myanmar's inability to participate or even designate a non-political representative ... is inevitable since it contradicts the principles and practice of equal representation in ASEAN."

ASEAN was chaired by Brunei when it snubbed Min Aung Hlaing, but under its annual rotation system, Cambodia now heads the group. AP

School launches series on entrepreneurship

21k School, an online-only school, has rolled out its 'Junior Ideathon' series, a platform where young student entrepreneurs can present their ideas, within a 15-minute timeframe, virtually, to a panel of distinguished entrepreneurs and businessmen. The 'Junior Ideathon' series has been created to help develop students hone their curiosity and creativity, and therefore develop an affinity to build their entrepreneurial skills at a very young age. It was hosted based on the popular Shark Tank format where entrepreneurs pitch their ideas to a panel of investors or "sharks" and persuade them to invest in their idea. It saw 145 students present their ideas across 15 breakout rooms to 'sharks'. The students were scored on their originality, presentation skills as well as their in-depth knowledge on the subject matter.

Love it or hate it, Gehraiyaan has become a conversation piece. We ask four Bengalureans their thoughts on the film which some find path-breaking, while others find plain unreal

DEEP DIVE

A still from the film

ANILA KURIAN

INFIDELITY, family problems, mental health...are these issues that the youth of urban India are grappling? Much-talked-about film Gehraiyaan, directed by Shakun Batra and starring Bengaluru girl Deepika Padukone, Siddhant Chaturvedi, Ananya Pandey and Dhairya Karwa, addresses these topics, often considered taboo. But the reaction to this film has been contrasting - some find it path-breaking, while others are dismissing it for unreal portrayal of life events. Here's what Bengalureans have to say:

'Aesthetics with some actual acting'

DID I like the film? For aesthetic and for some actual acting by Deepika Padukone, yes, absolutely. It's an age-old story of a clandestine love affair in a first-world problems kind of setting. Easy, therefore, in my opinion, to see it as something happening only in their kind of world, not our kind. Did it plumb any major depths as the title suggests - it tried to, on several subjects of fidelity, mental health, independence, choice etc, but everything seemed more incidental than a part of the character build-up. I kind of liked the plot twist - I mean, admit it, it's something we all have thought of as a solution at some point or the other in a tough spot. Individual life experiences will dictate how you feel about this movie. If there is so much talk about it everywhere, it seems to have made a strong impression, right?

Ruth Prabhu Dsouza, freelance journalist

'New-age story which reflects urban India'

'I'm a huge movie buff and I'm glad that a genre like this has been explored in Indian cinema. I loved that the cinematography was done, it had great international aesthetics to it. The story is contemporary, dark and goes pretty deep into the characters' personalities. I loved Deepika Padukone's character as I can relate to it being in my 30s. It shows how her childhood trauma affects her 30s, affecting any equation or relationship she has. It's definitely a modern-day tale. She's distrustful of the people she meets, but goes with it and ends up being betrayed anyway. I felt that all the other characters were also etched well. Many who watched this movie didn't understand or like it because they aren't used to this genre. The myriad twists in the main character's life are still stories that take place in real life. Her vulnerability of accepting her life events and taking charge of it is how I think one should be as a single 30-year-old. While subjects like infidelity are frowned upon and make people uncomfortable, this is how life is. The storyline shows the consequences of these actions without going over-the-top. It's a new-age story which reflects urban India.'

Jane Jeyakumar, radio jockey and content creator

'Ironic that the content contradicts the title'

MY biggest question after watching Gehraiyaan is 'What is the real narrative of the movie?'. It's a story about a flaky guy who has no control over his actions and thereby ruins everything he touches. The film shows that everyone is gullible except him. The name of the film doesn't do justice to the show or to the depth it is intended to have. One of the topics in the film was to show the lack of monogamy, I felt they could have portrayed it better. In order to show the reality of the situation, perhaps they could have highlighted a more respectable polygamic relationship. The film showed more heartbreaks and distress and I was left feeling uncomfortable after watching it. It would have also helped to understand why Deepika's character felt trapped like she kept saying throughout the film and why she found it so easy to cheat on her partner. The degree of character development was nil and everyone was progressing to move the story along - almost a waste of energy given that the film was a long one. It's ironic the title, Gehraiyaan, contradicts the content.

Ojas Thekketara, photographer

'Modern tale but with unrealistic plotline'

I have to agree that Deepika Padukone's acting was top-notch. She was there in every frame and the whole film was shot really well. Having said that, the way the characters approached each other seemed a bit too unrealistic...without understanding the consequences of their actions. There were too many topics being traversed and the direction of the storyline was bizarre. I couldn't quite get the connect about how Siddhant Chaturvedi's character cheating on his partner led to a murder case. Even if these were real stories, to push it to a level where someone's livelihood and mental makeup is affected, is a wrong message to give out. It's a modern tale but with a rather unrealistic plotline.

IN MEMORY (BHARGAVI NARAYAN- 1938 - 2022)

'She will be remembered for her joie de vivre'

THERE is a huge sense of loss at this moment, but there is also acceptance that we are all mortal. Bhargavi's life is nothing but a celebration...after all she lived her life doing what she loved most, acting. And she was able to do so till the very end. It's a blessing that all of us in the fraternity is grateful for. I, personally, feel blessed to have experienced her both as an elder and a contemporary. She loved theatre and she breathed theatre till her last breath. She was involved in the creative pursuit of it all throughout her life. When people say she is an institution, she is actually beyond that. I have worked with her right from Malgudi Days and later in a Kannada series. So we have been associated in different capacities. When we were doing Malgudi Days, I was the assistant director and she was the actor. But in the Kannada series, she was both writing and acting in it. She always came across as a disciplined actor and thespian. What struck me most about Bhargavi was the confidence with which she carried herself. That in itself was an inspiration for me.

Theatre actor, writer, activist

Bhargavi began theatre when she was 10 years old. So she saw the evolution of theatre over decades. She and Nani (Belavadi Nanjundiah Narayana) named their home 'Green Room'. Imagine naming your home Green Room! That didn't come out of nothing. You have to have theatre flowing in your veins, you've got to breathe it, and it's got to be your life. And that it was for her and Nani. I was in my 20s when I worked with her. We are talking about four decades ago. It's a strange relationship that we shared, one that runs deep. In fact, our lives were intertwined.

I have acted in plays that her son, Prakash Belavadi, directed and have been his co-actor too. I have also worked with her daughter as a co-actor way back in the '90s when we did Naga-mandala. She had this amazing ability to transcend any age barrier or any other normative barrier. She was a very open-minded person for someone from her generation, and was strong-willed. She will be remembered for her joie de vivre.

The weekly by-the-seat helicopter services between Bengaluru and Hampi aims to cut the seven-hour road journey to 80 minutes. After launching Kodagu and Kabini in December 2021, Hampi is the third route in BLADE's chopper services plan. Travelers flying into the city can board the flight from Jakkur vertiport, 20 minutes away from Kempegowda International Airport. The tickets are priced at ₹30,000++ per person, one way. Commenting on the expansion, Payal Satish, commercial director, BLADE India said, "As a magnificent city of ruins, Hampi boasts of a rich culture and history. However, enduring long hours of road travel to and from Bangalore eats into the precious time of the travellers. This chopper service aims to mitigate this pain point and allows fliers to experience efficiency in their travel and make Hampi more accessible." FIT BIT

UTTHITA JANU SIRSHASANA VARIATION (STANDING HEAD BETWEEN KNEES POSE)

It is a standing forward fold, which is considered very good for relieving stress and soothing the nervous system. In addition to the physical stretching and strengthening benefits, it balances the body. This is due to the combined elements of activity and passivity in the body once it is folded into the pose. It activates Swadhisthana (Sacral) Chakra, and helps to block fear, especially the fear of death. Opening this chakra can boost creativity, manifested desire and confidence.

STEPS

- Stand with feet about shoulder width apart.
- Exhale, bend forward from the hips and wrap the arms around the back of the knees, bending the legs slightly. The elbows must point out to the sides.
- Keeping the legs bent, try to bring the hands forward in between the legs and inhale after firmly interlocking the fingers behind the neck. Relax the back muscles.
- Exhale and slowly straighten the legs without letting the fingers slip from the neck. Don't strain.
- This will apply a strong leverage on the neck and a firm compression of the abdomen.
- Retain the breath out or breathe normally in the final position, the head will face backward.
- Hold the pose for a short duration.
- Release by bending the knees and unclasp the hands.
- Inhale and slowly return to the upright position.
- You can practice up to five rounds in the presence of an expert.

BENEFITS

- Stimulates the pancreas.
- Relaxes the hip joints and stretches the hamstring muscles, massages the spinal nerves, revitalises the brain.
- Relieves stiffness of the spine, neck, and back.
- Eliminates fatigue and reduces anxiety and tension.
- Improves blood circulation to the head as well; helps get rid of headaches and insomnia.
- Stomach is massaged, which improves digestion.
- Keeps the liver and kidneys healthy.

'GETTING DROPPED FROM ONE-DAY TEAM FORCED ME TO RELEARN'

TURNING PAGES

RAHUL Dravid must have been told a million times, if not more, that his equanimity and his commitment to calm toughness and perseverance have left us cricket lovers awestruck. Still, I noticed the shy smile creeping up his face when I said it. In this interview, I asked this magician about his magic wand. He said, matter-of-factly, that there is no such wand: just a set of skills and passionate perseverance, and a relentless drive towards excellence.

Rahul is a family friend and my entire family adores him. Our discussions on excellence and life's goals have always been extremely fulfilling and insightful. Even though I have met him countless times, every time I meet him, he elevates me with the sheer positivity of his energy.

VM: What does excellence mean to you?

RD: To me, excellence is the constant effort to get the best out of myself. To begin with, one has to recognize the skills one possesses for the chosen pursuit and then figure out if a huge reserve of passion accompanies it. For me, I was fortunate to have a skill set suited for the game of cricket. I had tremendous passion, even as a child, to pursue the game. Though it started out as a hobby, it became the largest part of my life pretty quickly. Excellence is a continuous journey. There are no rest stops. You have to keep evaluating your progress and improving. You need not compare yourself with others all the time, but review yourself against your chosen goals. Hence, set your goals in clear and unambiguous language. Excellence is also about being introspective. You need to look deep within – without wearing blinders or coloured glasses. You have to be brutal about where you are lacking and need to improve.

VM: What was the most important part of your journey towards excellence?

RD: There were many high and low points in the journey, but what mattered to me most was that, at the end of it, I could walk out of the stadium with my head held high and without any regrets. Everyone needs to create a process and plan that keeps him or her on the path towards excellence.

VM: What's the hardest part in the path to excellence?

RD: I'd say it's the constant perseverance towards seeing challenges as opportunities and the passion to improve. Even when you are at the pinnacle and enjoying a fair amount of success, how you can still be focused on improving further is the key. The pursuit of excellence is not a part-time or some-time investment, it is an all-the-time thing. Commitment, discipline and drive are needed in good measure. And, of course, a deep love and passion for what you do.

VM: Was there a turning point in your journey towards excellence?

RD: Yes, getting dropped from the one-day team in 1998 forced me to introspect, recalibrate and relearn. I was out of the one-day team for a year, during which I spent a massive amount of time developing new skills and adapting my game for the one-day arena. It took a lot, beginning with a deeper awareness of the finer aspects of what I lacked and, subsequently, the hard work to improve. I was able to play ten years of one-day cricket after that and score over 10,000 runs in over 300 one-day matches. John Wright noted that: 'He never made the same mistake twice. He learnt hugely in one-day cricket which probably was an area he had to work at a little bit more than others. He had been dropped from the Indian one-day team and then went on to come back and have a very good World Cup [in 2003].'

VM: What is the recipe for excellence?

RD: Apart from what I described earlier, it's also in the little things. All of those little things that come together to shape you. For a sportsperson, it could be the practice, the introspection, the attitude and the diet, to name some. And how one can be honest about these things even when no one is watching. It is in the sacrifices that you make during your pursuit, even in small things such as how much sleep you are getting. Those give you that extra 5 per cent edge over others. I have found that honesty is so important, that is, the kind of honesty one needs with oneself. So, be honest with your own self!

Bring back the old Valentine's Day

THIS Monday was observed as Valentine's Day. I'm no Bejan Daruwalla, but I can confidently assume that you spent most of the day finishing work, and looking at funny reels about Valentine's Day. Memes and tweets and stories — self-aware, sarcastic takes on the tradition. Cities were not draped in red, and plastic cupids weren't trapped at the entrance of malls. Honestly, I find it all quite boring.

It appears that India has gotten over the concept of Valentine's Day. Independence Day and Deepavali have become more marketable occasions to brands. But back in the day, it was a rather wonderful scam orchestrated by brands and advertising agencies. In those years, scams were more socially accepted phenomena. Chief ministers and defence ministers would get embroiled in scams. Newspapers were crammed with stamp paper scams, stock market scams and telecom scams. But the one that affected the youngsters of middle-class families the most was the Valentine's Day scam.

Every Valentine's Day featured a practised routine. About two weeks before the day, brands would expand their advertising budgets. Hoardings, malls and restaurants would deck themselves in red. Everybody from phone networks to super strong cement companies cajoled you to spend time with your loved one. Chocolate brands assured you that they could feel your lips, on their fingertips. Toothpaste brands implored you to get closer with confidence.

Television channels would telecast recent romantic hits. Just as the President addresses the nation every Republic Day, Shah Rukh Khan delivered his yearly Valentine's Day speech while peddling fairness creams, cars, or biscuits. While Capitalism was doing its bit, other actors were also in play. Religious groups would warn of dire consequences if the day was observed.

Since I grew up in a small town, the threat from religious groups was rather real. If you were unfortunately caught by these groups, they would either thrash you, or forcibly marry you to your partner, before featuring you in the annual local news shaming process. And so, the youngsters in my town adopted their own strategies. The general consensus was to avoid public parks, or any establishments with red hearts, for these spots were prone to vandalism. Girls covered their faces with their chunnis, and the guys practised short-distance sprinting.

The phenomenon of Valentine's Day was clearly targeted at youngsters in a post-liberalised India. An American capitalist idea credited to a Roman saint. But since I was the first one from both sides of my family to ever go on a date, I fell headlong into the scam. Entire stores were devoted to gifting. You could choose to express through a greeting card — where your deepest emotions were conveyed in the words of an underpaid copywriter. Chocolates were accepted too. For the musically inclined, perhaps a CD featuring favourite tracks. A meal at a restaurant, or a movie in a dark theatre. If you went out with someone, didn't embarrass yourself, and avoided getting forcibly married or thrashed — it was a good day.

Today, Valentine's Day is spoken of in a sarcastic, ironic manner. As a nation, one presumes we have moved past the ideas of a day dedicated to expressing love. The entire idea seems rather cringey, a blunder from the wonder years. Through an economic lens, brands have now moved to digital sales on e-commerce sites, and the marketability of Valentine's Day has taken a hit during the pandemic. But brings back the Valentine's Day of yore any day. It's been a while since I've fallen for a Capitalist trap!

Darshan

I CAN'T MAKE ANOTHER FILM LIKE MAJESTIC: DARSHAN

A SHARADHAA

ON every Darshan's birthday (February 16), fans of the star would gather outside his residence, and the Kannada star would make sure he greets and thanks them. However, things have changed because of the pandemic. Also, this year, Darshan has planned not to celebrate his birthday due to the untimely death of Puneeth Rajkumar. The Robert star recently put up a video clip to announce his decision to his fans. He also promised to meet them all next year.

CE caught up with the Challenging Star, who told us that he is not in the right space of mind for celebration. "I don't want my fans to be disappointed. We will soon meet on a good occasion," he said. The conversation then moved on to his debut film Majestic, which is set to be re-released soon. He also opened up about how work has become his priority in life, his upcoming films, and more... Excerpts from the interaction:

'Lost 2 years of precious time'

The actor, who is currently shooting for Kranti, is just taking a two-day break from the sets. He says, "Two years of my life got wasted, which is the case with the entire world. It feels sad to realise the amount of precious time we have lost over the last few years. Now, that we are slowly getting back to normal, my entire focus will be on my work," says Darshan. Having said that, Darshan is not in a hurry to make up for the lost time. "Past is past, and we can't do anything about it. The procedures and working pattern of a project will continue. We can't speed up a film, which requires an 80-day schedule, to be wrapped up in 30 days," he says.

KRANTI IS HALFWAY THROUGH

The first-look poster of Kranti directed by V Hari Krishna will be unveiled today. According to Darshan, fifty per cent of the film's shoot has been wrapped up. He adds that the film explores the issues with the education system. "We have planned to travel abroad for a schedule and the locations are getting finalised. I hope to complete the shooting by mid of April. The film is shaping up beyond what we had expected," Darshan adds.

'I prefer directors to writers to narrate the story'

"I am an actor, who insists that a director should narrate a story. I would never want to

Darshan and Tharun Kishore Sudhir to team up again after Robert

After Kranti, Darshan will be collaborating with director Tharun Kishore Sudhir for a project, backed by Rockline Venkatesh. The actor-director duo's last film, Robert, turned out to be a huge hit. The film will be launched today. Darshan also revealed that he will next team up with Tarak director Prakash Jayaram.

listen to it from the writer. Since it is a director's medium, I am keen to get details from him before locking the script. It is the producers, who should come forward with the right kind of directors for me to take it further," he says.

'Not all films on OTT are meant for family-friendly'

Darshan has been seeing films from across many languages on OTT over the past two years, and when asked if he would want to try something different, he says, "Not at all. In my opinion, not all films on OTT are meant for family viewing. Some films are meant for the big screens. Only theatres that can bring all kinds of audiences under one roof," he tells us.

MAJESTIC TO RE-RELEASE ON FEBRUARY 18

For Darshan, Majestic, his debut as a hero, remains special. The film, directed by late PN Sathya, turned 20 on February 8. The team has planned to celebrate Majestic's 20th anniversary by re-releasing the film on February 18. "The film was made using Dolby surround tech, and now, it has been upgraded to DTS for mat. I managed to watch a glimpse of the new version, and it took me back to the good old days," says Darshan. "I can't make another film like Majestic today. If you look at my career graph, among all the films, Majestic has a unique storyline. Usually, films have a hero, who has negative traits. Later, circumstances turn him into a soft-natured guy. But, in Majestic, the hero was a 'bad guy' throughout, but he acts good. I felt it was an unusual role," Darshan adds, "I had put all my energy and efforts into Majestic, and I continue to do the same for all my films till date."
